Before & After Shot - Great work guys!

I must say my expectations this year were exceeded. I was especially surprised by the Utah game, as I thought the cold weather would hurt us. I have more photos that are just awesome. Great work to everyone!

Hopefully the image works. http://www.cougarblue.com/images/fbfiles/images/Blueout\_\_\_Before\_After.JPG downtown, karma to you for your hard work on this! sometimes it's not easy trying to make things change, but I appreciate your efforts to contribute to the team and their success at home!

Go Cougars!!!!

It kinda reminds me of that quote that David O. McKay used to share about how important it is to "play well thy part." Not all of us have the speed of Austin Collie or the moxie of Max Hall, but we can look for ways to contribute nonetheless. Wearing blue to the games seems like a simple, but effective way to make a difference for us fans!

I agree w/ this. Fans have been coming earlier to the games. And some have said louder. I don't know about the later, but I do believe that when fans are able to contribute, they will get more involved.

I think the Utah/TCU games were evidence of this.

The most enjoyable and fulfilling sports moments in my life didn't happen when I showed up and sat around waiting for something to happen. My best sports moments came when I showed up early, dressed right (team colors) and ready to scream and fire up my team! It boggles me how so many so-called "fans" these days think being a fan means sitting around waiting for something to cheer about. I just don't get it. If you are a fan, then you shouldn't have to wait for something to cheer about! :angry: Seriously, how hard is it to wear blue to a game? Nice to see things are slowly changing. Awesoe pics Downtown.

I agree! I think things are changing! I thought that pic is awesome! The things do look a lot better.:woohoo: People are starting to come earlier especially against Utah. It was awesome! I always think the red at LES doesn't look right. Hooray for six straight sellouts!:silly:

Not only is there noticably more blue, but the stadium was filled to capacity in both pictures and every other game this year! That is what impresses me the most!

Downtown:

Because CougarBlue hates us all and throws in underscores. If you copy the link into your browser and delete the underscores, it works fine.

What are you blind?!! The MOST impressive thing was the divine intervention from above, cleaning the stands of the red stain :side: . SHEESH. :P

My nephew is on the team, and I got to go to dinner with him after the game. We met up with some of the other player (including Unga) ... and they all commented how much the crowd jacked them up. Especially late in the 4th when the chants of "B-Y-U" 'spontaneously' erupted until the whole stadium was going ... they felt the love and responded to it.

WAY TO GO FANS!!!! That was such a great game to be at!

Downtown: Your pics are Great! I questioned how much the blue would actually show ... your pics proved the point. Thank you.

The photo-shopping was GREAT!!! :kiss: (I'm not sure who did it ... good job! :laugh:

If someone gives me their email, I will give you the photos to post. I don't know how to do soo many.

Otherwise do as Pwride states. Copy/Paste....remove the _ (underscores).

Some nice photos! No, they were not photoshopped.

I think he's talking about the "enhancements" that I made to your original picture.

Well, when you're not living righteous;)

Actually he was referring to my html link. If you remove the underscores you will open up to some more awesome blueout shotsB)

This one... <http://www.cougarboard.com/noframes/message.html?id=3236192> copy and paste into browser...than remove/delete underscore symbols "_"

The photoshop comment refers to the lightning bolt to the nose bleed ...

it was not intended to refer to your original photo, sorry for the confusion. :S

Let's try this again. <http://www.cougarboard.com/noframes/message.html?id=3237448>

To see the other photos, you gotta copy url, paste in your browser, than remove the underscore (_) symbols. Should work.

Here's one I thought I'd throw out. I was on the field and took a picture with my cell phone. I'm really short, though (obviously), but I thought it was kind of cool that this picture is 99.999% blue. :P

I think it's awesome that so many people are wearing blue, but next year those that can go to the game need to step it up. All the blue t-shirts in the world don't do any good if you put on a black jacket, grey sweatshirt, or the beanies in your section look like a bag of skittles. Still, it's looking a lot better than when I was still in Utah.
