
BCS dream dies

Posted by stuckinbig10country - 2007/12/01 19:09

UCLA loses.

Its too bad to, because so far everything else has gone as we needed it to in order for us to get the bid.

=====

Re:BCS dream dies

Posted by declocoug - 2007/12/01 19:12

stuckinbig10country wrote:

UCLA loses.

Its too bad to, because so far everything else has gone as we needed it to in order for us to get the bid.

what a disappointment. UCLA might be my least favorite team out there right now.

=====

Re:BCS dream dies

Posted by byu_fan84 - 2007/12/01 19:14

Is their still a chance if Washington wins later tonight? Please say there is.

=====

Re:BCS dream dies

Posted by jjmterrain - 2007/12/01 19:15

i think it was better that usc won because one of them would get the bid anyway i think if everything else goes well we have a chance.. it would help if oklahoma lost though

=====

Re:BCS dream dies

Posted by byu_fan84 - 2007/12/01 19:18

Oklahoma and Missouri are still playing. The Sooners could lose, Missouri is playing pretty good this year.

=====

Re:BCS dream dies

Posted by niqmadu - 2007/12/01 19:21

Our only "chance" would be for an at large selection. I think we are an attractive team, but logic and reason do not always prevail when considering the bcs.

=====

Re:BCS dream dies

Posted by Phillip_Morgan - 2007/12/01 19:36

We still need ASU to lose and the Rainbows to lose too. ASU is up 10-7 with 2:49 left in the first half.

I think that we are enemy numero uno to the bcs. We are the only ones that are national champions, so they don't want to give us any credit. But when we are ranked in the top 25 in the preseason and then run the table next year, they will have to give us a spot at the table.

I also think that if we win out through 2009 we could be up for NC consideration. (That's if we get another year somewhat like this year)

=====

Re:BCS dream dies

Posted by CAFB_04-12 - 2007/12/01 19:57

Even if Hawaii wins and gets the auto-bid, BYU can still be in the at-large pool assuming they move to 16 or higher in the BCS poll. Now, will any BCS bowl take a non-BCS team without being forced to? I don't think so. All we can hope for now is a spoiling of Hawaii's New Year's Day.

=====