
1 down, 1 to go

Posted by MajorCougar - 2007/12/08 20:10

As much as I HATE the pub of Tim Tebow and the Florida gators, at least now we should hear less of "Brada boy" now that Mr. Colt did not win the Heisman.

Now, once Georgia smacks Hawaii, Island Boy should finally go away and leave us alone.:laugh:

=====

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by Airwolf84 - 2007/12/08 20:36

MajorCougar wrote:

As much as I HATE the pub of Tim Tebow and the Florida gators, at least now we should hear less of "Brada boy" now that Mr. Colt did not win the Heisman.

Now, once Georgia smacks Hawaii, Island Boy should finally go away and leave us alone.:laugh:

You're just upset because Brennan passed Ty in total passing yardage. Nothing else explains the disdain most of you have for Colt. Give the guy some respect already and stop your crying.:dry:

=====

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by MajorCougar - 2007/12/08 20:42

Ummm... not crying. He's done great on the field. Just "off" is questionable. Mostly have a disdain for people thinking they're great, when their schedule and struggles have said otherwise.

That, and certain fans that think they are the best thing since sliced bread...

=====

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by Airwolf84 - 2007/12/08 20:52

MajorCougar wrote:

Ummm... not crying. He's done great on the field. Just "off" is questionable. Mostly have a disdain for people thinking they're great, when their schedule and struggles have said otherwise.

That, and certain fans that think they are the best thing since sliced bread...

Mostly have a disdain for people thinking they're great, when their schedule and struggles have said otherwise.

So from 2002-2005, you're saying you have disdain for Cougarblue forum members then.

=====

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by MajorCougar - 2007/12/08 20:56

No, most true fans of BYU here at Cougarblue were not thinking BYU was great during 2002-2004. They knew that they had a better team than their record reflected; GC ruined the tradition and was a poor head coach. 2005 was the start of things moving forward in a positive direction, although BYU was an average team.

=====

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by craigocarson - 2007/12/08 21:06

Airwolf84 wrote:

MajorCougar wrote:

Ummm... not crying. He's done great on the field. Just "off" is questionable. Mostly have a disdain for people thinking they're great, when their schedule and struggles have said otherwise.

That, and certain fans that think they are the best thing since sliced bread...

Mostly have a disdain for people thinking they're great, when their schedule and struggles have said otherwise.

So from 2002-2005, you're saying you have disdain for Cougarblue forum members then.

How about great predictions? Arizona, Oregon, Utah >>take your pick....

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by Airwolf84 - 2007/12/08 21:07

MajorCougar wrote:

No, most true fans of BYU here at Cougarblue were not thinking BYU was great during 2002-2004. They knew that they had a better team than their record reflected; GC ruined the tradition and was a poor head coach. 2005 was the start of things moving forward in a positive direction, although BYU was an average team.

Most of the guys here on this site are convinced every year that BYU is BCS material and that this is the Lord's football team:laugh: and so it is superior. I wish we could access the material on these boards from '04 to prove my point.

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by MajorCougar - 2007/12/08 21:12

craigoscarson wrote:

Airwolf84 wrote:

MajorCougar wrote:

Ummm... not crying. He's done great on the field. Just "off" is questionable. Mostly have a disdain for people thinking they're great, when their schedule and struggles have said otherwise.

That, and certain fans that think they are the best thing since sliced bread...

Mostly have a disdain for people thinking they're great, when their schedule and struggles have said otherwise.

So from 2002-2005, you're saying you have disdain for Cougarblue forum members then.

How about great predictions? Arizona, Oregon, Utah >>take your pick....

Let's see:

BYU vs. AZ: 20-7.

BYU vs. Oregon: 38-8

BYU vs. Utah: 33-31; 17-10

You point? BYU won those games.

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by redhdqtnlv - 2007/12/08 22:59

Airwolf84 wrote:

MajorCougar wrote:

As much as I HATE the pub of Tim Tebow and the Florida gators, at least now we should hear less of "Brada boy" now that Mr. Colt did not win the Heisman.

Now, once Georgia smacks Hawaii, Island Boy should finally go away and leave us alone.:laugh:

You're just upset because Brennan passed Ty in total passing yardage. Nothing else explains the disdain most of you have for Colt. Give the guy some respect already and stop your crying.:dry:

No one cares about the whole surpassing Ty thing. Records are made to be broken. Your dreaming if you think that's why people don't like him.

Personally, I never really had strong feelings one way or another about Brennen, (except for the whole rape thing), but I was a little suspect of Hawaii's schedule. You know the whole 2 1AA teams thing and all... but I digress.

But watching him today at the ceremony cemented why I never pulled for him. It was worse than watching Brady Quinn at the NFL draft. At least Brady appeared somewhat nervous. From my perspective, Brennen appeared cocky. Almost as if to say, "just give me my trophy already." Not my cup of tea. Glad he didn't win for that reason alone.

=====

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by Island Pipeline - 2007/12/09 02:33

redhdqtnlv wrote:

Personally, I never really had strong feelings one way or another about Brennen, (except for the whole rape thing), but I was a little suspect of Hawaii's schedule. You know the whole 2 1AA teams thing and all... but I digress.

I can't believe that some of you BYU fans of a sudden are struck with "AMNESIA!" Once again can we please not forget the fact that BYU(at one point) seemed like were making headlines every week with all the "SEXUAL HARASSMENT" casees that your football players were getting themselves into. You bag on Colt but he was acquitted of all charges just like those former players from byu. Which leads me to believe that the only reason some people (in this forum) DISLIKE Colt is because he did better then Max Hall! Relax!:lol: :lol: :lol:

=====

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by wannaberockstar - 2007/12/09 05:13

Since the NCAA didn't include bowl games in records back in Ty's day like they do now, I'd like to see them go back and add the stats for bowl games back in. I think it's only fair. I wonder how many records Ty would claim back.

=====

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by Cougy_Monster - 2007/12/09 06:34

Airwolf84 wrote:

MajorCougar wrote:

As much as I HATE the pub of Tim Tebow and the Florida gators, at least now we should hear less of "Brada boy" now that Mr. Colt did not win the Heisman.

Now, once Georgia smacks Hawaii, Island Boy should finally go away and leave us alone.:laugh:

You're just upset because Brennan passed Ty in total passing yardage. Nothing else explains the disdain most of you have for Colt. Give the guy some respect already and stop your crying.:dry:

Come on Airwolf, at least give us some consistency. You love to drag any BYU-related accomplishment through the mud by criticizing the Cougs' strength of schedule. Why is UH's SOS not important to you?

If Max were to put up Brennan/Detmer-ish passing #s next year I am 100% positive you'd repeatedly post about how anybody could have that kind of success against MWC defenses.

Again you've exposed your anti-Coug bias. I'm sad for you.

=====

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by CAFB_04-12 - 2007/12/09 07:00

It only took 16 years and the weakest schedule of 2007 for a QB to pass Detmer in TDs. Congrats. Hopefully Brennan keeps the record for a long time too. I'm not sure where Brennan was getting his confidence from at the ceremony (I didn't see it, taking your word for it). It doesn't seem like any national writers were really considering anyone but Tebow or McFadden. Kind of like Hawaii and NC talk. Nobody is really seriously talking about it.

=====

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by bengel - 2007/12/09 09:05

Island Pipeline wrote:
redhdqtnlv wrote:

Personally, I never really had strong feelings one way or another about Brennen, (except for the whole rape thing), but I was a little suspect of Hawaii's schedule. You know the whole 2 1AA teams thing and all... but I digress.

I can't believe that some of you BYU fans of a sudden are struck with "AMNESIA!" Once again can we please not forget the fact that BYU(at one point) seemed like were making headlines every week with all the "SEXUAL HARASSMENT" casees that your football players were getting themselves into. You bag on Colt but he was acquitted of all charges just like those former players from byu. Which leads me to believe that the only reason some people (in this forum) DISLIKE Colt is because he did better then Max Hall! Relax!:lol: :lol: :lol:

Brennan was not acquitted of all charges. This from ESPN:

"Brennan was convicted of first-degree criminal trespass and second-degree burglary, but was acquitted of charges of sexual assault and indecent exposure. He was sentenced to seven days in jail and four years probation."

This has nothing to do with his record on the field, but may have played a role in the minds of some voting for the Heisman.

=====

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by detmer4prez - 2007/12/09 10:26

Island Pipeline wrote:
redhdqtnlv wrote:

Personally, I never really had strong feelings one way or another about Brennen, (except for the whole rape thing), but I was a little suspect of Hawaii's schedule. You know the whole 2 1AA teams thing and all... but I digress.

I can't believe that some of you BYU fans of a sudden are struck with "AMNESIA!" Once again can we please not forget the fact that BYU(at one point) seemed like were making headlines every week with all the "SEXUAL HARASSMENT" casees that your football players were getting themselves into. You bag on Colt but he was acquitted of all charges just like those former players from byu. Which leads me to believe that the only reason some people (in this forum) DISLIKE

Colt is because he did better then Max Hall! Relax!:lol: :lol: :lol:

When have any of us defended the BYU players that were involved in the sex scandal? The difference between BYU and Brennan is that when some BYU players got in trouble they were quickly punished and kicked off the team. No one here ever condoned what they did, same thing with the Broadus DUI. So don't try to say that we are ok with off the field crap when our players are involved.

The difference between BYU and Hawaii is that when a BYU athlete gets in trouble they are swiftly punished, when a Hawaii player gets in trouble they are given a scholarship.

p.s. Max Hall would have never thrown 5 picks against Idaho, I know that for sure.

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by decloucog - 2007/12/09 12:49

Island Pipeline wrote:
redhdqtnlv wrote:

Personally, I never really had strong feelings one way or another about Brennen, (except for the whole rape thing), but I was a little suspect of Hawaii's schedule. You know the whole 2 1AA teams thing and all... but I digress.

I can't believe that some of you BYU fans of a sudden are struck with "AMNESIA!" Once again can we please not forget the fact that BYU(at one point) seemed like were making headlines every week with all the "SEXUAL HARASSMENT" casees that your football players were getting themselves into. You bag on Colt but he was acquitted of all charges just like those former players from byu. Which leads me to believe that the only reason some people (in this forum) DISLIKE Colt is because he did better then Max Hall! Relax!:lol: :lol: :lol:

Wow, one of the worst examples I've ever seen. No one condoned the acts of FORMER BYU players involved in that case or wanted to see any of the players back on the field.

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by sjcougfan - 2007/12/09 14:54

Heisman trophies:

Ty Detmer = 1
Colt Brennaan = 0

I guess that's one record "brada" won't be getting huh? :)

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by Island Pipeline - 2007/12/09 15:39

detmer4prez wrote:

When have any of us defended the BYU players that were involved in the sex scandal? The difference between BYU and Brennan is that when some BYU players got in trouble they were quickly punished and kicked off the team. No one here ever condoned what they did, same thing with the Broadus DUI. So don't try to say that we are ok with off the field crap when our players are involved.

The difference between BYU and Hawaii is that when a BYU athlete gets in trouble they are swiftly punished, when a Hawaii player gets in trouble they are given a scholarship.

p.s. Max Hall would have never thrown 5 picks against Idaho, I know that for sure.

Again the "AMNESIA WORD" comes into play. You seem to forget that when these accusations (inwhich charges were dropped) did occur COLT was attending University of Colorado. Hawaii gave him a 2nd chance and he has made us Proud.

We go to church every sunday and learn how to "FORGIVE AND FORGET" but you guyz still can't seem to grasp that PRINCIPLE.

p.s.s. MAX HALL WILL NEVER EVER LEAD HIS TEAM TO A BCS BOWL AND WILL NEVER EVER PUT UP NUMBERS HOW COLT DID!(and you can bank on that MY BRADA!) ;)

=====

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by UliUli79 - 2007/12/09 16:09

I honestly think that Brennan is a very talented player. There's no way that he would have posted those kind of numbers playing in a more competative conference, but he'd good. I'm not going to argue that with Pipe... line:lol: . However, that's no reason to overlook his past. Forgive and forget is a principle related to repentance. It's not something to be thrown around. Hawaii didn't give Brennan a second chance. They saw an opportunity to get a talented football player that nobody else was going to take risk in. Let's be honest here.

=====

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by BlueBlue - 2007/12/09 16:17

Island Pipeline wrote:

We go to church every sunday and learn how to "FORGIVE AND FORGET" but you guyz still can't seem to grasp that PRINCIPLE.

Wait, so, you're ripping on BYU fans for having "amnesia", and then you're telling us we need to, well, have amnesia? But only if it applies to your girlfriend Brennan? You are precisely what you accuse BYU fans of. Which makes you a hypocrite. Plus you're dumb. Your posts typically prove this loud and clear, I just thought I'd point that out.

Hope your rainbows don't lose by more than 4 touchdowns when they face the first real defense they've seen all season. Anyone could put up gaudy numbers against the teams that the rainbows played this year.

And stay tuned to see what Max Hall can do over the next two years, even against real football teams. By then you'll look even stupider than you do now - which is saying a lot.

=====

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by MajorCougar - 2007/12/09 21:47

Island Pipeline wrote:

detmer4prez wrote:

When have any of us defended the BYU players that were involved in the sex scandal? The difference between BYU and Brennan is that when some BYU players got in trouble they were quickly punished and kicked off the team. No one here ever condoned what they did, same thing with the Broadus DUI. So don't try to say that we are ok with off the field crap when our players are involved.

The difference between BYU and Hawaii is that when a BYU athlete gets in trouble they are swiftly punished, when a Hawaii player gets in trouble they are given a scholarship.

p.s. Max Hall would have never thrown 5 picks against Idaho, I know that for sure.

Again the "AMNESIA WORD" comes into play. You seem to forget that when these accusations (inwhich charges were dropped) did occur COLT was attending University of Colorado. Hawaii gave him a 2nd chance and he has made us Proud.

We go to church every sunday and learn how to "FORGIVE AND FORGET" but you guyz still can't seem to grasp that PRINCIPLE.

p.s.s. MAX HALL WILL NEVER EVER LEAD HIS TEAM TO A BCS BOWL AND WILL NEVER EVER PUT UP NUMBERS HOW COLT DID!(and you can bank on that MY BRADA! ;))

Amnesia, no.

As for Max leading us to a BCS game or putting up brennan #s, it all depends on the schedule. If he had one as soft as Hawaii's, then sure.

But for you to "Bank" on it not being done, that's either a bold statement or idiotic. My guess is that it reflects the latter.

If Max Hall does lead us to a BCS berth, will you leave (and never come back)? That should be the punishment for your inane comments.

=====

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by couginTX - 2007/12/09 22:23

Island Pipeline wrote:

detmer4prez wrote:

When have any of us defended the BYU players that were involved in the sex scandal? The difference between BYU and Brennan is that when some BYU players got in trouble they were quickly punished and kicked off the team. No one here ever condoned what they did, same thing with the Broadus DUI. So don't try to say that we are ok with off the field crap when our players are involved.

The difference between BYU and Hawaii is that when a BYU athlete gets in trouble they are swiftly punished, when a Hawaii player gets in trouble they are given a scholarship.

p.s. Max Hall would have never thrown 5 picks against Idaho, I know that for sure.

Again the "AMNESIA WORD" comes into play. You seem to forget that when these accusations (inwhich charges were dropped) did occur COLT was attending University of Colorado. Hawaii gave him a 2nd chance and he has made us Proud.

We go to church every sunday and learn how to "FORGIVE AND FORGET" but you guyz still can't seem to grasp that PRINCIPLE.

p.s.s. MAX HALL WILL NEVER EVER LEAD HIS TEAM TO A BCS BOWL AND WILL NEVER EVER PUT UP NUMBERS HOW COLT DID!(and you can bank on that MY BRADA! ;)) We are also taught about consequences for our actions at church as well. Forgiveness Yes, releasing him from any accountability to better your own situation (June Jones)no. At Hawaii there are no consequences. Oh I also would hope he would break Ty's record playing against the teams he played, and the system he played in. Where is his signature win. Did he ever beat Texas, or a number 1 Miami team, no he beat Northern Colorado's school of interior design. Enjoy that inflated record.

=====

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by Island Pipeline - 2007/12/10 01:10

couginTX wrote:]

We are also taught about consequences for our actions at church as well. Forgiveness Yes, releasing him from any accountability to better your own situation (June Jones)no. At Hawaii there are no consequences. Oh I also would hope he would break Ty's record playing against the teams he played, and the system he played in. Where is his signature win. Did he ever beat Texas, or a number 1 Miami team, no he beat Northern Colorado's school of interior design. Enjoy that inflated record.

Just remember that BYU was in the "WAC" (which was considered the weakest conference like how we're viewed today) so most of TY'S record breaking performances were on weak teams like Utep, Wyoming, Utah state, Utah, New Mexico and yes you did beat TEXAS & MIAMI but what happen when you played OREGON, HAWAII & TEXAS A&M? (5 interceptions, a heisman trophy beating, and a broken collar bone)

So "don't go there" with the weak schedule excuse cause in 2005 Colt put up some impressive numbers on USC, MICHIGAN STATE, and SAN DIEGO STATE. In 2006 he did the same against ALABAMA, PURDUE AND OREGON STATE.

Blame Michigan and others like BYU (who refuse to play us because of the turf? yeah right you guyz just got thrashed!) for dropping out of our schedule (Colt would've run up some crazy #s on Broncos Boyz) We're up for any challenge and would go anywhere and play any team. We don't make excuses, we don't blame others we just play football and let our record 12-0 and BCS BOUND speak for itself.

ALOOOOOOOHA!;)
=====

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by Cougarbib2 - 2007/12/10 03:11

UH catches enough crap from BCS teams. Why don't we just go ahead and support them. This silliness reminds me a bit of Roger Maris breaking Babe Ruth's home run record. He was villified for doing it to the great one.

I think Ty Detmer is a better QB and a better person.

I have seen Colt Brennan play against very good teams the two previous years and two teams at the end of this year that are decent enough to respect. He is a very good college quarterback.

It is unfortunate that fans here cannot be as gracious as Ty Detmer has been on this topic.

I do not know Colt personally. I don't know what he did in Colorado and what he learned from mistakes that he made. I do know that I have not heard of problems here in Hawaii.

I hope Colt Brenan has learned from his mistakes.

I do not know if UH can beat Georgia. I do know that Colt Brennan will acquit himself very well against any team in these United States most days when he is healthy.

If he gets held to 300 yards, cut him some slack. If he throws for more yards than any team has thrown this year against the boys from Georgia even though they know he is going to throw on almost very down, give him some credit.

Max Hall will be a great college QB. Leading a team to 12-0 against any schedule is a daunting task, however. Even in this year of everyone rolling over every week, only one team did it. Let's not villify Max if he loses 1 or 2 games every year.

=====

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by Gymcoug318 - 2007/12/10 04:01

Island Pipeline wrote:
coughinTX wrote:]

We are also taught about consequences for our actions at church as well. Forgiveness Yes, releasing him from any accountability to better your own situation (June Jones)no. At Hawaii there are no consequences. Oh I also would hope he would break Ty's record playing against the teams he played, and the system he played in. Where is his signature win. Did he ever beat Texas, or a number 1 Miami team, no he beat Northern Colorado's school of interior design. Enjoy that inflated record.

Just remember that BYU was in the "WAC" (which was considered the weakest conference like how we're viewed today) so most of TY'S record breaking performances were on weak teams like Utep, wyoming, Utah state, Utah, New Mexico and yes you did beat TEXAS & MIAMI but what happen when you played OREGON, HAWAII & TEXAS A&M? (5 interceptions, a heisman trophy beating, and a broken collar bone)

So "don't go there" with the weak schedule excuse cause in 2005 Colt put up some impressive numbers on USC, MICHIGAN STATE, and SAN DIEGO STATE. In 2006 he did the same against ALABAMA, PURDUE AND OREGON STATE.

Blame Michigan and others like BYU (who refuse to play us because of the turf? yeah right you guyz just got thrashed!) for dropping out of our schedule (Colt would've run up some crazy #s on Broncos Boyz) We're up for any challenge and would go anywhere and play any team. We don't make excuses, we don't blame others we just play football and let our record 12-0 and BCS BOUND speak for itself.

ALOOOOOOOHA!;)

Wait! So let me understand this right! Detmer throws five interceptions against Texas A&M. With two seperated shoulders, and you wanna compare that too Brennan throwing five interceptions against Idaho?! Ya those two teams are totally comparable! :laugh: That's great with all the numbers that he put up! But how many of those did they actually win?! My guess would be very few or not at all? I haven't paid attention because Hawaii football hasn't been relevant till this year.

I'll admit a game between The cougs and the bows would be a good game. But if the bows were to come to provo. Hawaii had three games where they were lucky to win. Lousianna Tech, San Jose State, and Nevada! The cougs are better then all three of those teams! And have way more of a better home field advantage then either of those teams! The bows wouldn't stand too much of a chance! If we played down in Hawaii. It would be a tough game. And it would be a tough win! But I would like our chances! :lol: And the blowout loss too Georgia will speak for itself as well! :evil: Go Cougs!

=====

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by Pikoi - 2007/12/10 07:12

Island Pipeline wrote:
ALOOOOOOOHA!;)

Some of us real Hawaiians reverence the Spirit of Aloha. I will leave it at that.

=====

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by NorthernCougar - 2007/12/10 07:48

Airwolf84 wrote:

Most of the guys here on this site are convinced every year that BYU is BCS material and that this is the Lord's football team:laugh: and so it is superior. I wish we could access the material on these boards from '04 to prove my point.

You mean like this? (I gave up after the AZ prediction this year. Just way too much material to try to keep track of)

Referring to the BYU Bowl Game

Airwolf84 wrote:

I have one... will the Cougs drop out of the top 25 with the loss?

Bowl game again

Airwolf84 wrote:

1. Oregon is going to be more hungry for a win
2. The Ducks are faster and more athletic
3. Brown and Vakapuna will have minimal success running the ball and as a result, Beck will be forced to throw a lot against the Pac 10's best pass defense. For 3 quarters, Utah shut down Brown and Vakapuna and what happened... Beck was shaky and ineffective and his confidence went way down.
4. Oregon's running game
5. BYU's overrated pass defense

6. BYU's strength of schedule (84)
7. Oregon's strength of schedule (6)
8. BYU's track record in bowl games (7-24)
9. The Cougs' inconsistent special teams play
10. Oregon's new helmets

Bowl Game again

Airwolf84 wrote:

Now, having said that... I don't think BYU could beat any of these three teams right now. A slumping Oregon team is still better than BYU... they're quicker, more athletic and had they not made a few crucial mistakes against USC, they're right in that game. I can promise you this much... whichever team it is of these three will show just how fortunate BYU has been playing in the lousy MWC.

General Stupidity

Airwolf84 wrote:

BYU will not break into the top 25 because they are beating crappy teams in a very weak conference that are ranked in the cellar nationally (CSU was #86), not to mention the fact that they lost to a Pac 10 and ACC team. BYU is beating high school caliber football teams right now, it's as simple as that. CSU rushes 23 times for 26 yards and barely hits 150 yards total offense? The MWC is a DUMPY league and the coaches and media know it, which is why BYU is not going to get any love.

Ignoring some really bad years in the WAC:

Cougars No. 2 in nation for home-victory margin

<http://deseretnews.com/dn/view/1%2C1249 ... %2C00.html>

Airwolf84 wrote:

When your conference foes are awful, fielding some of the worst teams they've had in years, this is easy to accomplish.

Airwolf84 wrote:

BYU 27

Cowboys 13

General negativity referring to Beck being named Cingular All-America Player of the Week

Airwolf84 wrote:

Let's hope this isn't like the SI jinx... watch him come out and lay an egg against Air Force tomorrow.

Showing his true colors

Airwolf84 wrote:

Not a Ute fan either, never have been, never will be. Lately, just anti-BYU.

Showing he doesn't have a clue

Airwolf84 wrote:

4 out of the 5 wins BYU has are against teams with a combined record of 6-22 and an average national ranking of 115. Is BYU back? Hardly, but it does appear Bronco has them on the right track.

Trying to show he likes BYU

Airwolf84 wrote:

Is this game going to be so easy for the Cougs that no one has even taken the time to start a prediction thread yet? This one ought to be over midway through the 2nd quarter.

BYU 45

UNLV 10

Showing he really doesn't know football

Airwolf84 wrote:

Cowboys 13

Utes 10

Thread Airwolf started

Airwolf84 wrote:

Thread Title: BYU's 4-2 record deceiving

Another Airwolf Thread
Airwolf84 wrote:

Thread Title: Why TCU will win Thursday

Defense, defense, defense. They are going to have a D just as good, if not better, than what Arizona brought. They also have a decent offense to go with it. BYU will have trouble scoring in this one.

TCU 27
BYU 16

Showing how stupid he/she/it is.
Airwolf84 wrote:

Thread Title: Why Tulsa will win

1. Their offense is better than BYU's
2. Their defense is better than BYU's
3. They are a faster team with better athletes
4. They return 9 guys on a solid defense and 7 on offense, among them, QB Paul Smith, who is a candidate this year for the Davey O'Brien award. After Saturday, BYU fans will know who Paul Smith is!
5. Kragthorpe is a better head coach than Bronco and he has had 2 extra days to prepare for BYU

The only hope BYU has is running the football because Tulsa's D line isn't all that big. If they can somehow control the flow of the game by running with Curtis and Vakapuna, they'll stay close enough to keep it interesting. If not, forget about it. I wouldn't be surprised to see Tulsa win the game convincingly. Even Hans Olsen (if you guys can remember who he is) predicted a Tulsa victory. Tulsa's only weakness on D is their line since they are somewhat undersized, so if Brown and Vakapuna can both rush effectively, BYU will stay in the game. However, I just think Tulsa's DB's and secondary will be too much like Arizona's, thus giving the Cougs fits throwing the ball.

Arizona had no offense at all, but Tulsa does, which is why I think you have to lend more credence to the notion that BYU wins the game since Arizona beat BYU with defense only, whereas Tulsa brings both an offense and defense to the table. I think we're going to start seeing just how vital Watkins was to the offense, even though his receiving stats weren't very good. Speed=respect and BYU does not have speed at the WR position, which is why you only saw one deep ball against Arizona. Spreading the field is going to be difficult for the Y this year.

Another great prediction
Airwolf84 wrote:

Boston College 34
BYU 20

Airwolf84 wrote:

Jared, I concur with everything you said, except that the final score will be reversed in Arizona's favor. BYU's defense should pretty much manhandle anything Arizona tries to throw at them, however, Tuitama has something going for him that Hall does not... game experience. This is where the game will be decided. True, the Cats should be mediocre offensively, but they should have more success against BYU's defense than the Cougar offense will against their D. Realistically, this game could go down as one of the most offensively inept of the college football season. 'Zona's D will stifle anything BYU tries to do, especially considering the fact that the Cougs will have a non-existent rush attack... this is what will make it tough for Hall on the day. Your score prediction is ironic... I'm picking the Cats 17-10, but that might even be too generous for both offenses.

=====

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by Island Pipeline - 2007/12/10 09:22

Cougarbib2 wrote:

UH catches enough crap from BCS teams. Why don't we just go ahead and support them. This silliness reminds me a bit of Roger Maris breaking Babe Ruth's home run record. He was villified for doing it to the great one.

I think Ty Detmer is a better QB and a better person.

I have seen Colt Brennan play against very good teams the two previous years and two teams at the end of this year that are decent enough to respect. He is a very good college quarterback.

It is unfortunate that fans here cannot be as gracious as Ty Detmer has been on this topic.

I do not know Colt personally. I don't know what he did in Colorado and what he learned from mistakes that he made. I do know that I have not heard of problems here in Hawaii.

I hope Colt Brennan has learned from his mistakes.

I do not know if UH can beat Georgia. I do know that Colt Brennan will acquit himself very well against any team in these United States most days when he is healthy.

If he gets held to 300 yards, cut him some slack. If he throws for more yards than any team has thrown this year against the boys from Georgia even though they know he is going to throw on almost very down, give him some credit.

Max Hall will be a great college QB. Leading a team to 12-0 against any schedule is a daunting task, however. Even in this year of everyone rolling over every week, only one team did it. Let's not villify Max if he loses 1 or 2 games every year.

Thank you Cougarbib2 I respect your comments. I do not wish to bash with people but when people ridicule the accomplishments of others and their past? I will defend what's right especially if they are people who I personally know. "YOU BELIEVE IN MAX, I BELIEVE IN COLT. They're both great qbs so let's just leave it at that.

MERRY CHRISTMAS TO ALL FROM 50TH STATE!

=====

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by elcarniceroazul - 2007/12/10 10:03

Island Pipeline wrote:

Just remember that BYU was in the "WAC" (which was considered the weakest conference like how we're viewed today) so most of TY'S record breaking performances were on weak teams like Uteq, Wyoming, Utah state, Utah, New Mexico and yes you did beat TEXAS & MIAMI but what happen when you played OREGON, HAWAII & TEXAS A&M? (5 interceptions, a heisman trophy beating, and a broken collar bone)

So "don't go there" with the weak schedule excuse cause in 2005 Colt put up some impressive numbers on USC, MICHIGAN STATE, and SAN DIEGO STATE. In 2006 he did the same against ALABAMA, PURDUE AND OREGON STATE.

Blame Michigan and others like BYU (who refuse to play us because of the turf? yeah right you guyz just got thrashed!) for dropping out of our schedule (Colt would've run up some crazy #s on Broncos Boyz) We're up for any challenge and would go anywhere and play any team. We don't make excuses, we don't blame others we just play football and let our record 12-0 and BCS BOUND speak for itself.

ALOOOOOOOHA!;))

did island pipeline just use SDSU as an example of of not having a weak schedule, maybe the MWC is not as bad as we've been told

=====

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by UliUli79 - 2007/12/10 10:15

elcarniceroazul wrote:

Island Pipeline wrote:

Just remember that BYU was in the "WAC" (which was considered the weakest conference like how we're viewed today) so most of TY'S record breaking performances were on weak teams like Utep, Wyoming, Utah state, Utah, New Mexico and yes you did beat TEXAS & MIAMI but what happen when you played OREGON, HAWAII & TEXAS A&M? (5 interceptions, a heisman trophy beating, and a broken collar bone)

So "don't go there" with the weak schedule excuse cause in 2005 Colt put up some impressive numbers on USC, MICHIGAN STATE, and SAN DIEGO STATE. In 2006 he did the same against ALABAMA, PURDUE AND OREGON STATE.

Blame Michigan and others like BYU (who refuse to play us because of the turf? yeah right you guyz just got thrashed!) for dropping out of our schedule (Colt would've run up some crazy #s on Broncos Boyz) We're up for any challenge and would go anywhere and play any team. We don't make excuses, we don't blame others we just play football and let our record 12-0 and BCS BOUND speak for itself.

ALOOOOOOOHA!;)

did island pipline just use SDSU as an example of of not having a weak schedule, maybe the MWC is not as bad as we've been told Yeah man. SDSU isn't a team to brag about putting any kind of numbers up on. These are interesting examples anyway. Michigan State? Oregon State?

This comparison isn't going to work. You can't compare two players that played on very different teams against very different opponents in different eras. You can throw out what numbers you want. Now, the real question is, who would you let date your daughter?

=====

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by Island Pipeline - 2007/12/10 11:33

elcarniceroazul wrote:

did island pipline just use SDSU as an example of of not having a weak schedule, maybe the MWC is not as bad as we've been told

I used San Diego State because they're part of the MWC but I guess your opinion differs from what I thought was a decent conference and which leads me to believe that your victories over SDSU as well as Colorado St, UNLV, and Wyoming, are considered WEAK? Which makes "THE MWC" WEAK and leads me to believe that your schedule is just as WEAK as Hawaii's. Therefore you have no room to talk so "OPEN YOUR FRONT DOOR, JUMP OUTSIDE IN THE SNOW AND CHIIIIIIILL" :laugh:

12-0 AND BCS BOUND!

=====

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by frdbtr - 2007/12/10 11:44

Airwolf84 wrote:

MajorCougar wrote:

As much as I HATE the pub of Tim Tebow and the Florida gators, at least now we should hear less of "Brada boy" now that Mr. Colt did not win the Heisman.

Now, once Georgia smacks Hawaii, Island Boy should finally go away and leave us alone.:laugh:

You're just upset because Brennan passed Ty in total passing yardage. Nothing else explains the disdain most of you have for Colt. Give the guy some respect already and stop your crying.:dry:

I don't like Colt because he is a sick individual and shouldn't be playing college football at all. Anyone who sneaks into a female dorm and gropes women in their sleep should be allowed to play college football, they should be in prison. I can't believe that a person can get removed from one school for a crime like that and end up at another and worshipped as a hero by the fans. Playing college sports is a privelege and once you screw up in that manner, you shouldn't be allowed to participate.

=====

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by MajorCougar - 2007/12/10 11:50

Island Pipeline wrote:
elcarniceroazul wrote:

did island pipline just use SDSU as an example of of not having a weak schedule, maybe the MWC is not as bad as we've been told

I used San Diego State because they're part of the MWC but I guess your opinion differs from what I thought was a decent conference and which leads me to believe that your victories over SDSU as well as Colorado St, UNLV, and Wyoming, are considered WEAK? Which makes "THE MWC" WEAK and leads me to believe that your schedule is just as WEAK as Hawaii's. Therefore you have no room to talk so "OPEN YOUR FRONT DOOR, JUMP OUTSIDE IN THE SNOW AND CHIIIIIIILL" :laugh:

12-O AND BCS BOUND!

THAT is a bunch of croc. Hawaii's SOS is 119th. Can't get any worse than that.... Oh, wait, unless you're Utah State...

=====

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by Island Pipeline - 2007/12/10 11:52

UliUli79 wrote:

This comparison isn't going to work. You can't compare two players that played on very different teams against very different opponents in different eras. You can throw out what numbers you want. Now, the real question is, who would you let date your daughter?

SO WHY ARE YOU TALKING TO ME? I wasn't the one who tried to compare COLT AND TY, I'm just coming to COLTS defense cause I'm a proud Hawaii fan just like you're TrueBlue Cougar Fan.

For your 2nd question, you need to go to Dr Phil's or Ophras website bro! ;)

=====

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by UliUli79 - 2007/12/10 12:22

Island Pipeline wrote:
UliUli79 wrote:

This comparison isn't going to work. You can't compare two players that played on very different teams against very different opponents in different eras. You can throw out what numbers you want. Now, the real question is, who would you let date your daughter?

SO WHY ARE YOU TALKING TO ME? I wasn't the one who tried to compare COLT AND TY, I'm just coming to COLTS defense cause I'm a proud Hawaii fan just like you're TrueBlue Cougar Fan.

For your 2nd question, you need to go to Dr Phil's or Ophras website bro! ;)

I'm pretty sure the quotes are getting messed up, but allow me to retort. I wasn't necessarily talking directly at you. More like everyone. It's just not a good comparison, that's all. The second item was just due to the question being raised about Colt's character. It was more of a poor attempt at humor on my part than anything else.

=====

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by Island Pipeline - 2007/12/10 12:52

UliUli79 wrote:Colt's character. It was more of a poor attempt at humor on my part than anything else.

Colt made a mistake and has learned and grown from it. He is a role model to the youth of Hawaii. We are aware of his pass but we don't judge him for that because he gives the athletes and less fortunate youth of Hawaii hope in knowing that you can always bounce back whenever you make a mistake.

AAAALOHA!` (2U Piikoi)

=====

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by UliUli79 - 2007/12/10 23:25

If he is seen as a role model than I honestly hope he has changed. I also hope that ya'all represent the mids well against Georgia. Good luck pipes.B)

=====

Re:1 down, 1 to go

Posted by Island Pipeline - 2007/12/11 02:35

UliUli79 wrote:

If he is seen as a role model than I honestly hope he has changed. I also hope that ya'all represent the mids well against Georgia. Good luck pipes.B)

THANKS BRO!

=====