
Olson still not 100%

Posted by Pwride - 2007/12/18 14:39

" Because he hasn't had significant playing time in 2

=====

Re:Olson still not 100%

Posted by Mars - 2007/12/18 19:04

If you are attempting to copy & paste, watch the symbols from other websites, such as "-" "" " " " etc.

=====

Re:Olson still not 100%

Posted by scott715 - 2007/12/19 10:24

Daily Breeze reported that Ben hurt his knee again. I expect Osaar Rasshan a Freshman converted from wide receiver to play QB. He has potential and some leadership skills but little experience. I don't know if they had much time to put in plays that take advantage of his speed.

=====

Re:Olson still not 100%

Posted by harlinestillopen - 2007/12/19 10:44

I'm dissappointed, you always want to play a team at their best. If olsen doesn't play.... They won't score its as simple as that. Not saying that Olsen is great/good/average, Just that with a freshman QB, its not going to happen

=====

Re:Olson still not 100%

Posted by loopycoug - 2007/12/19 11:00

Maybe we could lend them Gaskins for a game. That's what my daughter's soccer coach does when the opponent does not have enough players (lends them a girl, not literally Gaskins).

=====

Re:Olson still not 100%

Posted by bengel - 2007/12/19 11:01

scott715 wrote:

Daily Breeze reported that Ben hurt his knee again. I expect Osaar Rasshan a Freshman converted from wide receiver to play QB. He has potential and some leadership skills but little experience. I don't know if they had much time to put in plays that take advantage of his speed.

Here's a link to the article.

http://www.dailybreeze.com/ci_7756031?source=rss_viewed

=====

Re:Olson still not 100%

Posted by dmudave - 2007/12/19 11:38

Hopefully he's not a running QB.

I really hate seeing a mobile QB run all over our defense.

Re:Olson still not 100%

Posted by bengel - 2007/12/19 12:02

Some of our previous experience with backups has not been good. I'm not willing to assume that starting a backup spells doom for UCLA.

Re:Olson still not 100%

Posted by azcavalier - 2007/12/19 12:12

bengel wrote:

Some of our previous experience with backups has not been good. I'm not willing to assume that starting a backup spells doom for UCLA.

Normally, i'd agree with you. But this guy has already played some, and was just awful. He was pulled against hapless Oregon in the first half, after he was terrible, not completing a single pass. The opted to finish the game with an injured Ben Olson. Now, you've got to think that he has to have some talent, or he wouldn't be on a FBS level team. But still...i've seen some bad college football players.

Maybe he's like John Beck. Maybe he has talent, but when thrown in as a freshman, he's awful. In four years, he'll be good. Who knows...

But not this year!

Re:Olson still not 100%

Posted by gordito - 2007/12/19 12:25

loopycoug wrote:

Maybe we could lend them Gaskins for a game. That's what my daughter's soccer coach does when the opponent does not have enough players (lends them a girl, not literally Gaskins).

Thanks for making me laugh B)

Re:Olson still not 100%

Posted by Pwride - 2007/12/19 12:31

Didn't even realize it got cut off. I hate cougarblue sometimes.

They will now be starting a walk-on QB who is 17 of 44 on the season. He isn't a threat except on the ground. If BYU can leave a LB in to spy we shouldn't have any trouble with him.

Re:Olson still not 100%

Posted by HuskerFan2 - 2007/12/19 12:34

dmudave wrote:

Hopefully he's not a running QB.

I really hate seeing a mobile QB run all over our defense.

He's a 6-4 212lb WR turned QB so of course he will be a mobile QB threat to BYU. Other than that, hes not much of a threat at all.

Here are his passing stats in three games:

Attempts: 44
Completions: 17
Completion Percent: 38.6%
Total Yards: 259
Yards per attempt: 5.9
Yards per game: 86.3
Interceptions: 2
Touchdowns: 0

Here are his rushing stats:

Rushes: 26
Yards: 92
Yard per carry: 3.5
Yards per game: 30.7
Touchdowns: 0

Re:Olson still not 100%

Posted by azcavalier - 2007/12/19 13:01

loopycoug wrote:

Maybe we could lend them Gaskins for a game. That's what my daughter's soccer coach does when the opponent does not have enough players (lends them a girl, not literally Gaskins).

Hey, we already gave them Olson, and look what they did to him! I wouldn't want Gaskins to suffer as well.

Re:Olson still not 100%

Posted by CougarPeasant - 2007/12/19 13:14

azcavalier wrote:

loopycoug wrote:

Maybe we could lend them Gaskins for a game. That's what my daughter's soccer coach does when the opponent does not have enough players (lends them a girl, not literally Gaskins).

Hey, we already gave them Olson, and look what they did to him! I wouldn't want Gaskins to suffer as well.

That and Gaskins might out of habit throw the ball to the Cougs because of the uniforms. ;)

Re:Olson still not 100%

Posted by carolina_cougar - 2007/12/19 13:15

azcavalier wrote:

loopycoug wrote:

Maybe we could lend them Gaskins for a game. That's what my daughter's soccer coach does when the opponent does not have enough players (lends them a girl, not literally Gaskins).

Hey, we already gave them Olson, and look what they did to him! I wouldn't want Gaskins to suffer as well.

:laugh: :laugh: :laugh: !!!

=====

Re:Olson still not 100%

Posted by Real.Men.Wear.Blue - 2007/12/19 13:28

Big Ben still not healthy? The guy is about as durable as a wet napkin. Even if he were a good QB (which he clearly is not), his extreme susceptability to injuries would have kept him from the NFL. He's played a total of like 10 games over the past two years because of injuries. One has to consider whether he's not just faking it now in order to avoid the punishment he would otherwise be destined to receive from the Cougar D. ;)

=====