
After the game

Posted by Yme - 2008/01/25 16:17

Hey everyone, come check out the #1 ranked men's volleyball after the New Mexico game. I can't say for sure but they usually let people in for free with their basketball ticket stubs. Lets pack the fieldhouse tonight and tomorrow. Games start at 7:00 but be there early if you want a seat.

GO COUGARS!!!!

=====

Re:After the game

Posted by Metal Bubba - 2008/01/25 16:57

Yme wrote:

Hey everyone, come check out the #1 ranked men's volleyball after the New Mexico game. I can't say for sure but they usually let people in for free with their basketball ticket stubs. Lets pack the fieldhouse tonight and tomorrow. Games start at 7:00 but be there early if you want a seat.

Amen, brother. I was at the Y from 1991 to 1994 and the men's and women's volleyball games were BY FAR the best sporting events. I don't mean to imply that I like volleyball more than football or basketball, because that couldn't be further from the truth. But the excitement and energy level from the crowds at the volleyball games was WAY better than at football and basketball games.

Go Cougs!

=====

Re:After the game

Posted by Yme - 2008/01/25 17:04

Its true. The feildhouse packed to the brim is way exciting...our team is awesome this year so I'm really looking forward to it.

GO COUGARS!!!

=====

Re:After the game

Posted by Tyler1830 - 2008/01/25 17:52

I've been fortunate enough to attend a number of amazing football and basketball games at BYU, but hands down the most exciting BYU sporting event I've ever attended was the BYU-Stanford volleyball match in 1997. Stanford was ranked #1 at the time. To say that the match was a battle is an understatement. It was the only volleyball match I've ever seen where there was actually a scuffle between the players. The field house was packed. The fans were more intense than I've ever seen at LES or the Marriott Center, and when BYU rallied to win the last set I've never seen fans storm a field/court faster.

=====

Re:After the game

Posted by Cougarbib2 - 2008/01/25 21:28

In Hawaii - volleyball is usually a bigger deal than football - maybe not in 2007. They like Women's volleyball the best. I asked why and someone told me "it is because you can see the ball".

VB is way more exciting than I ever imagined.

Go Cougs

=====

Re:After the game

Posted by etyotx - 2008/01/26 00:29

Tyler1830 wrote:

I've been fortunate enough to attend a number of amazing football and basketball games at BYU, but hands down the most exciting BYU sporting event I've ever attended was the BYU-Stanford volleyball match in 1997. Stanford was ranked #1 at the time. To say that the match was a battle is an understatement. It was the only volleyball match I've ever seen where there was actually a scuffle between the players. The field house was packed. The fans were more intense than I've ever seen at LES or the Marriott Center, and when BYU rallied to win the last set I've never seen fans storm a field/court faster.

I love the volleyball games, but I'd have to put at least a dozen FB games ahead of any vb games-and it's not even close. For example, Miami '90 trumps just about anything, IMHO.

=====

Re:After the game

Posted by Tyler1830 - 2008/01/26 07:07

etyotx wrote:

Tyler1830 wrote:

I've been fortunate enough to attend a number of amazing football and basketball games at BYU, but hands down the most exciting BYU sporting event I've ever attended was the BYU-Stanford volleyball match in 1997. Stanford was ranked #1 at the time. To say that the match was a battle is an understatement. It was the only volleyball match I've ever seen where there was actually a scuffle between the players. The field house was packed. The fans were more intense than I've ever seen at LES or the Marriott Center, and when BYU rallied to win the last set I've never seen fans storm a field/court faster.

I love the volleyball games, but I'd have to put at least a dozen FB games ahead of any vb games-and it's not even close. For example, Miami '90 trumps just about anything, IMHO.

I don't disagree. I'm sure there have been some football games that were better, but I'm just comparing the games that I've actually attended. I was at BYU from 96-97, 99-2002 and went to almost all of the home football games during that time. (I think the only one I missed was Utah (!) in 2001 because of family obligations.) The only game--which we won--that really stands out for me during that time was Texas A&M in 96, although Washington and Cal in 99 were also good. There were also some fun blow out wins like Tulane in 2001. But I don't think I would put any of those games over the 97 BYU-Stanford volleyball match in terms of intensity--although storming the field after Texas A&M was great. Anyways, I see your point. I know there have been some amazing football games. I'm just speaking of games I've been able to attend.

=====

Re:After the game

Posted by nuk13 - 2008/01/26 07:17

When we won the last national championship my best friends son was the middle blocker and I got to go to the playoff games in the Smith field house. Maybe it was because Michael was on the team but it was as exciting a sporting event as I've attended. Michael was an All American so that made a difference. I think he and his teammates may well have been BYU's best athletes at that time. There were guys that could elevate over 40 inches!

=====

Re:After the game

Posted by Yme - 2008/01/26 09:21

Last nights game was great. BYU won in 4. I don't think that any of the volleyball games I've attended compared to some of the football (Utah '00 '01 '07) that I've seen in person. I think that the best volleyball game I've seen was the one vs Hawaii in the mariot center several years ago. Come check them out again tonight at seven.

Go Cougars!!!

=====

Re:After the game

Posted by NikeFootball - 2008/01/26 09:36

I was at the game yesterday. I admit the volleyball games are very fun to watch. It is sick how high some of those guys can jump...however, I would take a b-ball and especially a football game (ever when we play Northern Iowa) over a vball game.

=====