

---

Kaveinga's schollie?

Posted by Boilermaker - 2008/02/06 19:50

---

I am guessing it will go to Rich??? or maybe it will go to another MLB....Neil Crook an Oregon 2-time Def. player of the year!!!

<http://blogs.sltrib.com/recruiting/>

I just want to go to bed on a positive note!

=====

Re:Kaveinga's schollie?

Posted by buzzard - 2008/02/06 21:37

---

What about that Kufusi kid that everyone assumed would not academically qualify? I hear that his grades and test scores perked up considerably in the last year, and he is a big-time athlete. Does anyone know if he was scooped up, or if he is available?

=====

Re:Kaveinga's schollie?

Posted by buzzard - 2008/02/06 21:41

---

What about that Kufusi kid that everyone assumed would not academically qualify? I hear that his grades and test scores perked up considerably in the last year, and he is a big-time athlete. Does anyone know if he was scooped up, or if he is available?

=====

Re:Kaveinga's schollie?

Posted by Mars - 2008/02/06 22:02

---

I think Rich seems like a great kid and would be a wonderful place for the scholarship to land. Good for him if so, and good for BYU!

=====

Re:Kaveinga's schollie?

Posted by cruiser - 2008/02/07 00:34

---

I am amazed at the number of great linebackers we are getting this year. It makes me wonder if Kaveinga's absence hasn't already been filled. The program is becoming a magnet for some of the best players in the country, even if we do lose a four-star or two. I expect the three-four defense to live long and prosper under Bronco's guidance.

=====