Deseret Duel

BYU leads Utah 28-19.

What sports are left and how many points are they worth?

It seems lame to me that both men's and women's basketball each get 10 points total. The two sports are NOT equal.

Here's the schedule (the score isn't updated yet) and the point values:

It's ours!

The Deseret Duel is a joke. The last thing I want to see is some senior executive from Deseret Bank talk to crowd after the game and hand Trent some goofy trophy to put over his head like it means something. I'd rather see Trent hoist up the 'Boot'.

Please...get this marketing crap out of the victory celebration.

I think it should be 1 pt per game played between us.

That would show which school actually won more games and in the end, won the season series.

The point system is interesting...but essentially its a subjective bias toward the different sports. I will admit though, that most people care more about the football and basketball games so the points show us more what sports we care about, not what sports should receive more points for wins.

We'll give them a victory or two in womens basketball or gymnastics. We own them otherwise - as it should be!

So a women's soccer game is worth 6 points and a mens basketball game is worth 5? :unsure:

They give 6 points for minor sports and 10 points for football/basketball. So our win in Football was 10 points, our 2 wins in Basketball are 10 points. The magic number is 33, if we can get 33 points, we will have won the magical commercialized duel.

Problem is you only play one football game a year. So whoever has the stronger Baseball and softball teams would have the advantage it every event was worth 1pt. They play four times in both of these. We play two bball games so the total is 10pts and because of title IX the woman's games are 5pts each for a total of 10 pts.

Too bad they don't include track and field. Then it would be a runaway.

No Worries I think we will win this trophy so many times in a row that the uta fans will stop playing. We will acheive total dominance. Go Cougs
