
How Long Do the Starters Play Tonight?

Posted by texacallicougar - 2008/03/08 14:15

Just curious what ya'll think. Will they play much past the first quarter since they have an ideal chance to rest? I, personally, hope they don't rest. I am going to the game tonight and want to see the 1's in for the duration. So far this year, Rose has been a foot on the throat kinda guy, I hope he keeps that going tonight.

On a side note, I caught the end of the last TCU game on the radio the other night and the announcer was saying that they thought they may have a sellout at this game . . . but he admitted that it was not thanks to the TCU fans. :woohoo: They are always amazed out here at the fan turnout.

=====

Re:How Long Do the Starters Play Tonight?

Posted by gmj81 - 2008/03/08 15:07

I bet they don't do much different. It's not like they need the rest. They won't play again until next Thursday. Might as well get them nice and worn out today. The only exception I see would be the possibility of Murdock taking the game off or at least drastically reduced minutes so that his ankle can heal up for both the MWC tourney and March Madness.

=====