CSU - Wyoming

Who should we cheer for? I'm cheering for CSU because I think they are terrible and an upset over Wyoming would be an anomaly (they couldn't do it against BYU). Wyoming, however, is a little dangerous.

Incidentally, both teams are playing terrible. 36-31 for Wyoming at half.

I agree CSU is terrible, and Wyoming is a little dangerous, but, I don't think it matter that much. BYU will beat either of them.

well either way its a 1 point wyo lead 3 minutes in the 2nd half. the 2 worse teams in conference? I'd take the better of the 2-wyo. Because 1-Rose knows Heath, and 2-we will do the same consistent game plan we've done in the last 2 years against them...win. it'd keep BYU loose and well prepared for another unlv home game. CSU up 60-56 with 2:57 left in the 2nd half. Wyoming's ball.

(Let us not forget that this is the same Wyoming team that swept Utah that may lose to the team that got swept by all 8 MWC teams.)

looking at the book score it looks like P. Cresson the big 7-0 for CSU didn't play today. I know he was hurt earlier in the season but I thought he was back. Without him we should beat them good, with him it might be closer.

He reinjured himself in their last game. Slight, slight chance he'll be playing against us. Nice win CSU.

Okay, Cougs, put CSU back in their place! :laugh:

Looks like BOTH CSU teams, after going winless in the conference season, are pulling some upsets in the tourney...I can't believe the women team beat Utah though...crazy! Let's not overlook the Rams, they have some karma on their side!

These are two reasons why they play the games instead of just deciding them on paper and two reasons why nobody, including BYU, should be looking past CSU. I have commented several times this season that although they (CSU Men) had not won a conference game, they kept playing most teams pretty close, including BYU, and that they should not be taken lightly because they were going to pop someone at some point. They almost did it a few games ago but then lost their lead and the game at the end.

Take CSU seriously whether they suit up the men or the women or a co-ed team.

Go Cougs

Meantime, in the Pac-10, AZ leads OSU 52-17 with 2:23 minutes until half time. I'll go out on a limb here and project AZ will win the game?

Is there a typo in that at all? For OSU's sake, I'd hope so. Ouch. (I don't really care for either team but that's amazing.)

Probably not a typo. Oregon State is pitiful this year. I live in Oregon and Oregon State hasn't won a conference game all year in B-Ball. USC was up by 40 points before half time in a game played last month.
