
SDSU beats AFA, faces BYU in next round

Posted by CougarPeasant - 2008/03/13 17:42

SDSU sweated out a tough win over AFA.

SDSU was not pretty in their win and I think BYU will have no problem disposing of them tomorrow, especially if BYU plays defense tomorrow like they did today.

AFA remains winless in MWC tournament play.

Watching the finish of this game reminds me why I really hate basketball at any level. It took nearly 10 mins to play out the final 10 secs of the game due to fouls, timeouts, and aggressive play. So boring and frustrating.

=====

Re:SDSU beats AFA, faces BYU in next round

Posted by Gunk - 2008/03/13 17:55

We should be able to take SDSU tomorrow no problem, especially if we play anywhere close like we did against CSU.

On a slightly different note, so far I am 2 for 2 on my MWC tourney predictions.

=====

Re:SDSU beats AFA, faces BYU in next round

Posted by cougarfan144 - 2008/03/13 18:49

I don't think we lose to anybody (including UNLV) in this tourney if we shoot like we did today AND have the same level of D that we showed in the 2nd half.

I was encouraged by our shooting. The tourney play we experienced in Denver always had that "strange court" bounce in our shooting. I hope we can keep it going.

=====

Re:SDSU beats AFA, faces BYU in next round

Posted by AF_Puma - 2008/03/13 18:49

Gunk wrote:

We should be able to take SDSU tomorrow no problem...

We shouldn't have lost to UNLV and Wake Forest by a bazillion nor should we have lost to SDSU in San Diego.

There are a lot of things BYU shouldn't do, but I can only go as far as to say that BYU will be favored. If Trent plays the whole game like he did the first half and we don't have others like Collingsworth come in and pick up the slack we'll only win if SDSU is having an average night. Wade White is the type of player that BYU has problems matching up against.

=====

Re:SDSU beats AFA, faces BYU in next round

Posted by lawman - 2008/03/13 19:04

I'm very encouraged, but let's remember the goal is to win one NCAA game. and then another. etc.

=====

Re:SDSU beats AFA, faces BYU in next round

Posted by lawman - 2008/03/13 19:05

PS--I think that this is the year that we do it!

Also, if we win the tournament, we may have a decent chance to jump up in the rankings because some of the ranked teams ahead of us could well lose this week in their conference tourneys.

Re:SDSU beats AFA, faces BYU in next round

Posted by Gunk - 2008/03/13 19:44

AF_Puma wrote:

Gunk wrote:

We should be able to take SDSU tomorrow no problem...

We shouldn't have lost to UNLV and Wake Forest by a bazillion nor should we have lost to SDSU in San Diego.

There are a lot of things BYU shouldn't do, but I can only go as far as to say that BYU will be favored. If Trent plays the whole game like he did the first half and we don't have others like Collingsworth come in and pick up the slack we'll only win if SDSU is having an average night. Wade White is the type of player that BYU has problems matching up against.

I assume you mean both Lorenzo Wade and Billy White. Yes, those two players can give us a hard time. I think BYU will come better prepared for them than our last outing.

Unfortunately I didn't see today's game, but my understanding is we played awesome defense and got a lot of our points in transition from defensive stops. Trent can not score a basket all game for all I care as long as he plays awesome D like he did today and grabs those boards. We have plenty of scorers. Out of Cummard, Burgess, JT, Jimmer and now Colinsworth, one of them will have a hot hand.

Re:SDSU beats AFA, faces BYU in next round

Posted by Gunk - 2008/03/13 19:45

lawman wrote:

PS--I think that this is the year that we do it!

Also, if we win the tournament, we may have a decent chance to jump up in the rankings because some of the ranked teams ahead of us could well lose this week in their conference tourneys.

Like Washington St losing to Cal. That helped us in the rankings department.

Re:SDSU beats AFA, faces BYU in next round

Posted by Short_Changed - 2008/03/13 21:29

Gunk wrote:

AF_Puma wrote:

Gunk wrote:

We should be able to take SDSU tomorrow no problem...

We shouldn't have lost to UNLV and Wake Forest by a bazillion nor should we have lost to SDSU in San Diego.

There are a lot of things BYU shouldn't do, but I can only go as far as to say that BYU will be favored. If Trent plays the whole game like he did the first half and we don't have others like Collingsworth come in and pick up the slack we'll only win if SDSU is having an average night. Wade White is the type of player that BYU has problems matching up against.

I assume you mean both Lorenzo Wade and Billy White. Yes, those two players can give us a hard time. I think BYU will come better prepared for them than our last outing.

Unfortunately I didn't see today's game, but my understanding is we played awesome defense and got a lot of our points in transition from defensive stops. Trent can not score a basket all game for all I care as long as he plays awesome D like he did today and grabs those boards. We have plenty of scorers. Out of Cummard, Burgess, JT, Jimmer and now Colinsworth, one of them will have a hot hand.

Trent didn't score a lot, but every time he touched the ball he drew two or three guys which is why we had so many open shots. Pick your poison, double or triple Trent and watch us bomb from the outside or let one guy guard Trent and watch him go for 20 or more. I'd hate to be an opposing team's coach right now. That's a lose lose situation.

=====

Re:SDSU beats AFA, faces BYU in next round

Posted by ltpwfdcm - 2008/03/13 22:50

Washington lost to Cal not Washington State. Washington State beat Oregon tonight.

=====

Re:SDSU beats AFA, faces BYU in next round

Posted by Gunk - 2008/03/13 23:11

ltpwfdcm wrote:

Washington lost to Cal not Washington State. Washington State beat Oregon tonight.

Oh good...WSU has a special place in my heart.

=====

Re:SDSU beats AFA, faces BYU in next round

Posted by Yndian - 2008/03/14 06:35

I have faith that the coaches will figure out how to stop Lorenzo Wade this time. There's no way he's going off like he did in San Diego.

=====