Does anyone want to set one up an ESPN and or Yahoo group for a friendly Cougarblue pick'em contest?

We don't have one yet?

I would love to make one but I am partial to 5 bracket set-ups because its fun to have a chance to enjoy it after your pick gets blown.

But, many here hate that and love a single bracket challenge better.

Any opinions?

I say we make a COUGARBLUE one again this year but vote on whether its a 5 or 1 bracket league.

Last year we had 2 groups...one that was a one bracket only group and one that was a 5 bracket group. Why not set it up like that again.

I set one up at ESPN:

group name: cougarblue

password: gocougs

<http://games.espn.go.com/tcmn/group?groupID=15506>

Are there two groups? ie Five brackets or one bracket? I vote for two groups. I'll join up on Sunday...er Monday.

Go COugs!!!

The only real options it gave me were locked or unlocked.. meaning that once tournament time started you couldn't import your brackets from one group to another. I'm no expert at setting these things up, plus the ESPN site had some glitches yesterday.

I'm not sure what a 5 bracket is?

Another site that lets you set very customizable bracket rules is www.seedspickem.com. You can make picks every round that score by seeds, so you don't have to worry about blowing a bracket on the first day.

So is anyone interested in having a cougarblue bracket? So far only two entries.

group name: cougarblue
password: gocougs

<http://games.espn.go.com/tcmen/group?groupID=15506>
