
Where is the Spring football news?

Posted by WACoug - 2008/03/20 21:29

Tomorrow will be the fifth day of Spring practice and we have yet to hear from anyone with any sort of inside knowledge as to what has been happening. McGregor, Cruiser, is there nothing you can tell us? The media blogs have all been about the bball tournament. I expected to hear a little something by now.

=====

Re:Where is the Spring football news?

Posted by Npliam - 2008/03/20 21:35

WACoug wrote:

Tomorrow will be the fifth day of Spring practice and we have yet to hear from anyone with any sort of inside knowledge as to what has been happening. McGregor, Cruiser, is there nothing you can tell us? The media blogs have all been about the bball tournament. I expected to hear a little something by now.

Somebody give us something besides basketball. I need the disraction and crying in my caffeine free diet coke just isn't cutting it!:(

=====

Re:Where is the Spring football news?

Posted by BYUtx - 2008/03/20 21:52

The best thing you could do right now is subscribe to TBS. Right now it is definitely worth the $10. There's been a lot of good stuff. Not just the articles, but also on the message board-there are daily practice updates that are pretty specific.

=====

Re:Where is the Spring football news?

Posted by mraven - 2008/03/21 09:21

Also, keep in mind that practice isn't every day. I believe we've only had three practices this week so far.

=====

Re:Where is the Spring football news?

Posted by BlueNate - 2008/03/21 10:00

Forgive me for forgetting, but... when is the blue and white game again?:huh:

=====

Re:Where is the Spring football news?

Posted by cougarfan144 - 2008/03/21 10:37

BlueNate wrote:

Forgive me for forgetting, but... when is the blue and white game again?:huh:

April 12. I want to say 1 o'clock. I believe there are other activities prior to that so it may be even earlier that you'll want to be there.

=====

Re:Where is the Spring football news?

Posted by radius - 2008/03/21 10:53

WACoug wrote:

Tomorrow will be the fifth day of Spring practice and we have yet to hear from anyone with any sort of inside knowledge as to what has been happening. McGregor, Cruiser, is there nothing you can tell us? The media blogs have all been about the bball tournament. I expected to hear a little something by now.

Fui looks like the Fui from 06: mean and having a good time out there and he appears to have gotten a step back. The team mentality on the field was clear as new guys/second teamers appeared to have a hard time keeping up in the drills, especially the defensive pursuit drills. CJ Santiago looks to have fixed whatever was going on in his punting early on in the season and is still recovering from some shoulder surgery so isn't taking more than 20-30 kicks a day. The wideouts look great! Luke Ashworth may not be a huge contributor this year but he will have his moments. He is getting back the per-mission form more and more each day and his effort will get him some minutes in Bronco's system. Collie is still a freak... enough said. He does look to have put on some more size though so that'll be good. I know that we are deep in LBers but I am still concerned with who is going to step up and fill that huge void. We'll see how they do through spring ball. The DB's/Safety's look pretty good for only a few days back playing again. the O-line is still impressive and look like they will be better than last year. I can't think of anything else that really stood out to me from what I have seen... I'll write more if I can think of anything else.

=====

Re:Where is the Spring football news?

Posted by elcarniceroazul - 2008/03/21 11:34

Cruiser has had some very nice articles on cougarlegion.com i highly recommend

=====

Re:Where is the Spring football news?

Posted by WACoug - 2008/03/21 15:17

elcarniceroazul wrote:

Cruiser has had some very nice articles on cougarlegion.com i highly recommend

I always forget about cougarlegion.

=====

Re:Where is the Spring football news?

Posted by gmj81 - 2008/03/22 13:59

TBS is the single best way to keep up to date on the team and who's doing what. During peak recruiting periods, spring and fall ball, there is no better way to keep a pulse on the status of the team. I highly recommend it to anyone. Even if you don't do it year round, you owe it to yourself to pay for a few month here and there during these key periods when you'll want to be in the know.

=====

Re:Where is the Spring football news?

Posted by BYUtx - 2008/03/22 15:50

gmj81 wrote:

TBS is the single best way to keep up to date on the team and who's doing what. During peak recruiting periods, spring and fall ball, there is no better way to keep a pulse on the status of the team. I highly recommend it to anyone. Even if you don't do it year round, you owe it to yourself to pay for a few month here and there during these key periods when you'll want to be in the know.

It's true. Between the 1-3 daily articles and the daily spring ball blog on the message board, Cougar fans that don't belong to TBS are missing a lot of good info.

=====

Re:Where is the Spring football news?

Posted by BlueNate - 2008/03/23 20:45

where is this tbs??

=====

Re:Where is the Spring football news?

Posted by LaytonCougar - 2008/03/23 21:17

BlueNate wrote:
where is this tbs??

Totalbluesports.com

=====