

---

Latu\'s got the wheels back

Posted by Hengst - 2008/03/25 21:00

---

<http://www.cougarfan.com/article.asp?ArtID=46034&URL=http://www.byucougars.com/Filing.jsp?ID=10547>

25 yard runs are hard to break when you aren't tackling yet (you can't really make people miss tackles on a short whistle, and there is certainly no running over anyone).

=====

Re:Latu\'s got the wheels back

Posted by bengel - 2008/03/25 21:25

---

The link didn't work.

=====

Re:Latu\'s got the wheels back

Posted by BlueBlood75 - 2008/03/25 21:30

---

copy and paste the whole link.

=====

Re:Latu\'s got the wheels back

Posted by bengel - 2008/03/26 07:24

---

Thanks. That worked. By the way, did you notice the name of the person writing the article. Is this an example of what parents should NOT do when naming a child? Carey Hoki. Simon Cowell would love it! :laugh:

I've good things about Latu. I think last spring he was the subject of some posts suggesting he look good in spring, but by fall had been surpassed.

=====

Re:Latu\'s got the wheels back

Posted by splitbamboo - 2008/03/26 09:21

---

Two things I thought interesting in the article.

First, doesn't it seem that the Bronco quote about Mike Reed comes out of left field? All of a sudden we go from a reception to glowing reviews of lifestyle differences from Bronco. The comments were kind of cool but just didn't really seem to flow with the article.

The other thing was that there was no mention in the article about Collie...

=====

Re:Latu\'s got the wheels back

Posted by Hengst - 2008/03/26 09:27

---

splitbamboo wrote:

Two things I thought interesting in the article.

First, doesn't it seem that the Bronco quote about Mike Reed comes out of left field? All of a sudden we go from a reception to glowing reviews of lifestyle differences from Bronco. The comments were kind of cool but just didn't really seem to flow with the article.

The other thing was that there was no mention in the article about Collie...

---

Does every article have to be about collie? there are 10 other players on the field with him at the same time ;)

=====

Re:Latu\'s got the wheels back

Posted by Sage - 2008/03/26 09:40

bengel wrote:

Thanks. That worked. By the way, did you notice the name of the person writing the article. Is this an example of what parents should NOT do when naming a child? Carey Hoki. Simon Cowell would love it! :laugh:

I've good things about Latu. I think last spring he was the subject of some posts suggesting he look good in spring, but by fall had been surpassed.

Yea I saw it. I'm pretty sure it is just a pen name. Pretty memorable if you ask me.

=====

Re:Latu\'s got the wheels back

Posted by mountaincougar - 2008/03/26 10:19

Don't tell Austin there are 10 other guys out there.

=====

Re:Latu\'s got the wheels back

Posted by Cougarageous - 2008/03/26 14:30

Hengst wrote:

splitbamboo wrote:

Two things I thought interesting in the article.

First, doesn't it seem that the Bronco quote about Mike Reed comes out of left field? All of a sudden we go from a reception to glowing reviews of lifestyle differences from Bronco. The comments were kind of cool but just didn't really seem to flow with the article.

The other thing was that there was no mention in the article about Collie...

Does every article have to be about collie? there are 10 other players on the field with him at the same time ;)

Opposing defenses are going to be struggling with the exact same thought. :laugh:

Go Cougs!

=====

Re:Latu\'s got the wheels back

Posted by splitbamboo - 2008/03/27 10:12

Cougarageous wrote:

Hengst wrote:

splitbamboo wrote:

Two things I thought interesting in the article.

First, doesn't it seem that the Bronco quote about Mike Reed comes out of left field? All of a sudden we go from a reception to glowing reviews of lifestyle differences from Bronco. The comments were kind of cool but just didn't really seem to flow with the article.

The other thing was that there was no mention in the article about Collie...

---

Does every article have to be about collie? there are 10 other players on the field with him at the same time ;)

Opposing defenses are going to be struggling with the exact same thought. :laugh:

Go Cougs!

I should have been a little more descriptive in my comment. My point was that others in addition to Collie are getting air time--that's a good thing as I think it means we have a balanced (and impressive) receiver corp.

=====

Re:Latu\'s got the wheels back

Posted by CrimsonCoug - 2008/03/27 12:00

---

Not to diminish Latu's promising performance, but as long as we're on a tangent, thought some might enjoy this repartee from my four-year-old last night, which came totally unprompted and out of the blue after three months without seeing a game:

Him: "Dad, do you know what my favorite part of BYU is?"

Me: "What, bud?"

Him: "Austin Collie!"

Me: "Yeah?"

Him: "Yeah, he's REALLY good!"

Me: "Yeah, he is, huh. You remember when you got to give him a high five at that game?"

Him: "Yeah, that was cool. And then do you remember when he was running on the field and he caught the ball and he went ZOOM right past the other guy! He's so fast! He's better than those other guys. He's my favorite! He's Awesome!" (His other name for him is 'Awesome Collie'.)

Definitely my proud dad moment of the week. My wife, of course, just shook her head.

=====

Re:Latu\'s got the wheels back

Posted by imuakahuku - 2008/03/27 12:49

---

CrimsonCoug wrote:

Not to diminish Latu's promising performance, but as long as we're on a tangent, thought some might enjoy this repartee from my four-year-old last night, which came totally unprompted and out of the blue after three months without seeing a game:

Him: "Dad, do you know what my favorite part of BYU is?"

Me: "What, bud?"

Him: "Austin Collie!"

Me: "Yeah?"

Him: "Yeah, he's REALLY good!"

Me: "Yeah, he is, huh. You remember when you got to give him a high five at that game?"

Him: "Yeah, that was cool. And then do you remember when he was running on the field and he caught the ball and he went ZOOM right past the other guy! He's so fast! He's better than those other guys. He's my favorite! He's Awesome!" (His other name for him is 'Awesome Collie'.)

Definitely my proud dad moment of the week. My wife, of course, just shook her head.

That is almost the exact same conversation I had with my 7yr old son this week. And he refers to him as Awesome Collie and not Austin. He was playing football outside yesterday with a neighbor kid and he was pretending to be Collie. It was pretty cool! But he still wants to be the QB for BYU. He keeps asking me what he needs to do to be a good QB.

This has been another installment of Proud Father moments.

---

Re:Latu\'s got the wheels back

Posted by Detmer Forever - 2008/03/27 12:52

---

CrimsonCoug wrote:

Not to diminish Latu's promising performance, but as long as we're on a tangent, thought some might enjoy this repartee from my four-year-old last night, which came totally unprompted and out of the blue after three months without seeing a game:

Him: "Dad, do you know what my favorite part of BYU is?"

Me: "What, bud?"

Him: "Austin Collie!"

Me: "Yeah?"

Him: "Yeah, he's REALLY good!"

Me: "Yeah, he is, huh. You remember when you got to give him a high five at that game?"

Him: "Yeah, that was cool. And then do you remember when he was running on the field and he caught the ball and he went ZOOM right past the other guy! He's so fast! He's better than those other guys. He's my favorite! He's Awesome!" (His other name for him is 'Awesome Collie'.)

Definitely my proud dad moment of the week. My wife, of course, just shook her head.

It brings a few happy tears to my eyes to read that Can't wait 'til I have a couple babycougs of my own to bring up in the way of truth and righteousness

=====

---

Re:Latu\'s got the wheels back

Posted by Metallicat - 2008/03/27 12:58

---

Ok, so my proud father moment, a few weeks back in church a kid sitting two or three rows a head of us smacked his head on the pew(sp?) and started crying. My 8 month old started laughing at him. The more he cried the more my eight month old laughed. I can't help but thinking that if she liked that, she's gonna love David Nixon and company!

=====

---

Re:Latu\'s got the wheels back

Posted by McLovin - 2008/03/27 14:28

---

Metallicat wrote:

Ok, so my proud father moment, a few weeks back in church a kid sitting two or three rows a head of us smacked his head on the pew(sp?) and started crying. My 8 month old started laughing at him. The more he cried the more my eight month old laughed. I can't help but thinking that if she liked that, she's gonna love David Nixon and company!

I can only imagine how proud you must be raising a blossoming sadist :')

=====

---

Re:Latu\'s got the wheels back

Posted by ola - 2008/03/27 14:32

---

My thirteen month old boy said about the same thing this week. Except with out being prompted he said, "wasn't it awesome when Awesome Collie caught that pass and beat the dirty utes!" Then he slammed his three inch football, flexed his muscles, and tackled me.

=====