

---

some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by TimO - 2008/03/26 08:16

---

<http://sports.espn.go.com/travel/news/story?id=3224604>

anteaters, geoducks (dirty-jobs), zombies...some of the ugliest/worse mascots ever.

In the state of Utah from best to worst

#1-Cosmo, personal bias, made it to the capitol one mascot bowl thing

utah st.'s aggie is okay

The Worse: the yewts native american bird named "swoop" oh that is awful...it just sends the image of a dirty emo guy with one giant earing...nice utah, nice.

---

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by Hengst - 2008/03/26 08:42

---

As far as within utah the beat diggers take the cake. Although the Darts are a close second. What exactly is an aggie anyway?

---

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by kiwibacon - 2008/03/26 08:56

---

poor high school mascots...

Isn't it like the Delta "Rabbits" or something?

Aren't their some "Farmers" somewhere in the state of Utah?

"Beat Diggers" is pretty bad.

...and well I don't care what the mascot is...if you are from North Sanpete...that is just wrong:silly: .

---

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by Methusaleh - 2008/03/26 14:51

---

"Beat Diggers" is AWESOME! Don't know what you guys are talking about. :)

---

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by TimO - 2008/03/26 15:21

---

just look at this gross song-they are the worse
The Geoduck Fight Song

(words and music by Malcolm Stilson, 1971)

Go, Geoducks go,
Through the mud and the sand,
let's go.
Siphon high, squirt it out,
swivel all about,
let it all hang out.

Go, Geoducks go,
Stretch your necks when the tide
is low
Siphon high, squirt it out,
swivel all about,
let it all hang out.

---

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by harlinestillopen - 2008/03/26 15:43

---

TimO wrote:
just look at this gross song-they are the worse
The Geoduck Fight Song

(words and music by Malcolm Stilson, 1971)

Go, Geoducks go,
Through the mud and the sand,
let's go.
Siphon high, squirt it out,
swivel all about,
let it all hang out.

Go, Geoducks go,
Stretch your necks when the tide
is low
Siphon high, squirt it out,
swivel all about,
let it all hang out.

NOBODY KNOWS WHAT IT MEANS! But its provocative

---

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by Hengst - 2008/03/26 16:42

---

it's a type of large clam.

---

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by StatCougar - 2008/03/26 16:53

---

I'll add some in from California, where I served my mission: The Honkers, and the Fighting Zebras. I would rather be a beet digger.

---

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by texacalicoigar - 2008/03/26 17:52

---

The Acorns from Live Oak High School (CA). As if their name ain't bad enough, they used to kick our butts (and everyone else in the district). I guess it's that "Boy Named Sue" syndrome where you gotta be tough because of your name.

---

On the cool side, I like the SF Dons. Did my student teaching/coaching internship there.

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by Hooks14 - 2008/03/26 20:53

---

I like the Dons, too, but hardly anyone knows what a don is.
As far as colleges go, I think SUU's Thunderbird is pretty cool. Second only to Cosmo, IMO.

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by imuakahuku - 2008/03/26 21:40

---

I thought my school's mascot was pretty cool. The red raiders. Funny thing is we got that name because way back in the olden days, they didn't have any uni's so one of the "rich" private schools (Iolani Red Raiders) donated their old uniforms. Funny thing is Kahuku actually means "guardian of the red earth (dirt)". There is a lot of red dirt in kahuku which is good for planting pineapple and sugar cane.

The worst has to go to U of Hawaii. Years ago they were the Hawaii Rainbows. That wasn't tough enough so they became the Rainbow Warriors. Later when the symbol of the rainbow was hijacked they sort of unofficially became just the Warriors. I have not heard if they ever did officially change from the rainbow to the warrior. Farrington Governors I think are a close second. What kind of awe can you inspire as a governer? I'm also wondering about Punahou. What in the world is a "buff'n blue"?

An ironic thing is that there are no schools on Oahu that have the shark or a ray or marlin or anything like that as a nickname/mascot. I found one school that was founded in 1997 that go by the sharks. I did see some spartans, trojans, bears, cowboys (instead of paniolo), dragons, chargers, roughriders, knights, falcons, and cougars. Go figure who choose all those for nicknames. I would have thought there would be more sea creatures but aside from the sharks (estb.1997) there are no others that I can find. There are a few seasiders and surfriders but no surfers or sailors. How long have drugs been around? I guess alcohol has been around nearly forever so that could explain it. :)

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by Conosticator - 2008/03/26 23:18

---

Hooks14 wrote:
I like the Dons, too, but hardly anyone knows what a don is.
quote]

I do. That's the thing that happens between night time and day time. Don't assume everyone sleeps in. ;)

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by detmer4prez - 2008/03/26 23:35

---

One that I always thought was funny was the Tillamook (Oregon) Cheesemakers.

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by Conosticator - 2008/03/26 23:41

---

Hengst wrote:
it's a type of large clam.

---

And it is pronounced "gooey-duck". They taste great and are fun to dig up along the Hood Canal or Willapa Bay. Personally though, I prefer razor clams, both digging & eating.

<http://www.ecy.wa.gov/programs/sea/pugetsound/tour/goeduck7.jpg>

They have been known to live as long as 168 years (don't ask me how they determine the age of one of these critters). They are the largest mollusk and longest lived.

Geoducks have been measured with a shell length up to 23 cm and weight up to 7.15 kg. Average size is 1 kg.

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by Conosticator - 2008/03/26 23:47

---

detmer4prez wrote:

One that I always thought was funny was the Tillamook (Oregon) Cheesemakers.

I remember playing against the Cheesemakers when I was in high school. They didn't become part of our league until after I graduated but we still competed against them in basketball sometimes and every year in wrestling.

I always thought Boring Oregon ought to have their own high school and nickname. Imagine the mascot for a school named Boring High! Possible nicknames - the snoozers, the yawns...

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by Conosticator - 2008/03/26 23:49

---

My kids biggest high school rival was the Camas Papermakers.

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by RogDog118 - 2008/03/27 05:30

---

I always liked the UC Santa Cruz Banana Slugs.... Classy.

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by Gymcoug318 - 2008/03/27 06:00

---

TimO wrote:

<http://sports.espn.go.com/travel/news/story?id=3224604>

anteaters, geoducks (dirty-jobs), zombies...some of the ugliest/worse mascots ever.

In the state of Utah from best to worst

#1-Cosmo, personal bias, made it to the capitol one mascot bowl thing

utah st.'s aggie is okay

The Worse: the yewts native american bird named "swoop" oh that is awful...it just sends the image of a dirty emo guy with one giant earing...nice utah, nice.

Would you expect anything less from the puker?!:laugh: So why is a Hawk their mascot because the tribe would have a hawk for a pet or something?! I think the beat diggers and the dons are just terrible! There's a couple of more that I need to think of.....The one that doesn't make any sense too me is the Colorado rockies mascot is a dinosaur? I'm just very confused by that! I can't think of any others at this time? The banana slugs are hilarious! I ain't gonna lie!

---

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by Hengst - 2008/03/27 06:20

---

Conosticator wrote:

My kids biggest high school rival was the Camas Papermakers.

I remember Camas, lol, I went to evergreen, we were the plainsmen, almost just as bad.

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by snoscythe - 2008/03/27 08:17

---

I went to two high schools and experienced both ends of the spectrum. In Texas we were the Marauders, which I thought was an awesome mascot, especially given our crosstown rivals were the Fighting Farmers.

In Ohio, we were the Battling Beavers. You can imagine all the fun, extremely mature chants that we experienced at the hands of opposing student bodies in the land where Bob and Tom reign supreme.

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by cszjr - 2008/03/27 09:59

---

In Idaho, we have the Orofino Maniacs (Orofino is home to one of the State's mental hospitals). I kind of like the mascot.

We have the Shelly Russets, imagine a potato as your mascot.

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by BYUtx - 2008/03/27 10:09

---

http://msnbcmedia.msn.com/i/msnbc/Components/Art/HEALTH/041214/VLrg\_CouchPotato.jpg

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by treck - 2008/03/27 10:14

---

The Manti HS Templars has to be included.:(

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by TwiceCoug - 2008/03/27 10:36

---

The Delta Rabbit is not really that bad it is the same Rabbit that is on Monty Python's Holy Grail...it has huge fangs. It will also nibble your bum.

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by cszjr - 2008/03/27 10:40

---

---

BYUtx - Karma to you my friend. Love the photo. I'll be chuckling all day long.

cszjr

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by imuakahuku - 2008/03/27 12:44

---

cszjr wrote:

In Idaho, we have the Orofino Maniacs (Orofino is home to one of the State's mental hospitals). I kind of like the mascot.

Now that is funny!!!!!!!!!!:laugh: :laugh: :laugh: :laugh: :laugh: :laugh:

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by Beaveroug - 2008/03/27 12:56

---

What about the University of Utah "fighting sacklesses"

Honestly the worst is UC Santa Cruz "Banana Slugs"

While were knocking original names why don't we knock a few overly used cliché names. Wow!!! the tigers, the hawks, the wolves, the bears -- these took a lot of thinking. Sounds like were getting merit badges.

GO BEETDIGGERS -- CLASS OF 97 BABY!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by Conosticator - 2008/03/27 13:00

---

Hengst wrote:

Conosticator wrote:

My kids biggest high school rival was the Camas Papermakers.

I remember Camas, lol, I went to evergreen, we were the plainsmen, almost just as bad.

My kids went to Washougal. The Panthers.

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by Nogbody - 2008/03/27 13:21

---

I don't remember which school but wasn't there a caveman mascot somewhere in Utah? What a distinguished, upstanding mascot to get behind and go fight win...

I still like beet diggers the best.

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by Beaveroug - 2008/03/27 13:51

---

---

The American Fork Cavemen -- Home of former BYU receiver Toby Christensen son of former BYU tightend Todd Christensen

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by WACoug - 2008/03/27 14:29

---

Conosticator wrote:

Hengst wrote:

it's a type of large clam.

And it is pronounced "gooey-duck". They taste great and are fun to dig up along the Hood Canal or Willapa Bay. Personally though, I prefer razor clams, both digging & eating.

<http://www.ecy.wa.gov/programs/sea/pugetsound/tour/goeduck7.jpg>

They have been known to live as long as 168 years (don't ask me how they determine the age of one of these critters). They are the largest mollusk and longest lived.

Geoducks have been measured with a shell length up to 23 cm and weight up to 7.15 kg. Average size is 1 kg.

I am pretty sure they count the rings or ridges on the shell, kind of like a tree.

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by Illinois1Cougar - 2008/03/27 14:33

---

Being Native American I'd have to say that the Yootards have the worst mascot. They are suppose to be the "Utes" right? So whats with that bird? Just a ploy to keep the "indians" from being offended?????

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by imuakahuku - 2008/03/27 14:42

---

Nogbody wrote:

I don't remember which school but wasn't there a caveman mascot somewhere in Utah? What a distinguished, upstanding mascot to get behind and go fight win...

I still like beet diggers the best.

Why? Because he is a caveman? What's wrong with the caveman?

<http://www.cougarblue.com/images/fbfiles/images/caveman2.jpg>

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by BYZoo - 2008/03/27 15:16

---

Johnny B (a Utah stand-up comic) had a funny bit about strange high school mascots. He asked the audience to give him a mascot name and someone shouted "Dons!" (Spanish Fork High). Johnny B: "The fearsome, fighting Dons! Sheesh, last week we got killed by the Larrys!"

=====

---

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by Slugger - 2008/03/27 16:12

---

treck wrote:

The Manti HS Templars has to be included.:(

Funny you mention that because for years I joked about the Templars being named after a building, a sacred building at that. But just last week I learned that the word "templar" actually dates back to medieval times and refers to knights and appointed guards to certain sacred religious items (or something of that nature). Some of that involved the guarding of temples which is where the derivative "templar" comes from. I felt a bit sheepish after two decades of bashing them for creatively naming themselves after a building but as it turns out there is some admirable imagery and history to that name.

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by Slugger - 2008/03/27 16:15

---

Illinois1Cougar wrote:

Being Native American I'd have to say that the Yootards have the worst mascot. They are suppose to be the "Utes" right? So whats with that bird? Just a ploy to keep the "indians" from being offended?????

I have wondered the same thing. I have always been fascinated with Native American history and culture and thought it would be much cooler to have a head-dress wearing Indian chief walking the sideline than a ridiculous stuffed bird with a sissy name like "swoop". Whether or not you like Florida State, you have to admit that the Seminole Indian mascot that rides out on the horse and throws the sphere into the ground is pretty dang cool! It just goes to show that the air really is thin up on the hill.

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by ColoradoBlueZone - 2008/03/27 16:46

---

I will have to echo the Shelly Russets. I went to BYU-Idaho and know some Russets in my ward. Cool guys but the mascot/name is Gay , gay, gay!!

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by cougarfan144 - 2008/03/27 16:46

---

Hengst wrote:

As far as within utah the beat diggers take the cake. Although the Darts are a close second. What exactly is an aggie anyway?

Hey, go easy on my Darts. We're unique.

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by snoscythe - 2008/03/27 16:50

---

Hengst wrote:

What exactly is an aggie anyway?

All of the Aggie schools are either A&M schools or former A&M's (Texas A&M, Utah A&M, New Mexico A&M, etc.)

A&M stands for Agriculture and Military, and Aggie comes from the Agricultural roots of the school.

=====

---

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by jbar1221 - 2008/03/27 17:18

---

Let me add two from southern california

The LACES Unicorns! Yea thats right a high school in LA has a Unicorn for a mascot.

The Whittier College Poets! The Poets are by far my favorite. The funny thing is I have a good buddy who attended both of these schools.

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by sjcougan - 2008/03/27 17:31

---

Methusaleh wrote:

"Beat Diggers" is AWESOME! Don't know what you guys are talking about. :)

As a proud Beetdigger, class of 91, I gotta agree. Come on people, at least it's original, besides it has history, back in the day, the original Jordan High was located by a large beat farm, the kids were even allowed out of class to go dig beets. I heard there was a school in Idaho called the Beetdiggers too.

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by BYUtx - 2008/03/27 17:38

---

I think Sugar City, ID also has the beet diggers as a HS mascot.

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by rackem - 2008/03/27 17:40

---

Hengst wrote:

Conosticator wrote:

My kids biggest high school rival was the Camas Papermakers.

I remember Camas, lol, I went to evergreen, we were the plainsmen, almost just as bad.

We played Camas and Washougal all the time back in the 70s and 80s, fun times.. My school was the Kalama Chinooks (Indians), I remember going to state one year in basketball and we ended up playing a school from eastern Washington, they assumed we were the Chinook fish and had all these banners of their mascot eating fish and what not...very funny. They did get the last laugh as they beat us 99-50. O-well, we were the Cinderella team that year and all good things finally came crashing down on us.

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by WACoug - 2008/03/27 17:54

---

Slugger wrote:

treck wrote:

The Manti HS Templars has to be included.:(

Funny you mention that because for years I joked about the Templars being named after a building, a sacred building at that. But just last week I learned that the word "templar" actually dates back to medieval times and refers to knights and appointed guards to certain sacred religious items (or something of that nature). Some of that involved the guarding of temples which is where the derivative "templar" comes from. I felt a bit sheepish after two decades of bashing them for creatively naming themselves after a building but as it turns out there is some admirable imagery and history to that name.

---

Correct. The "Templars" were a military order composed of knights officially endorsed by the Roman Catholic Church during the Crusades. They were responsible for protecting people on pilgrimage from Europe to Jerusalem. Templar is also somewhat of a nickname. Their full name was "The Poor Fellow-Soldiers of Christ and of the Temple of Solomon".

---

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by BYUtx - 2008/03/27 19:18

---

cougarfan144 wrote:

Hengst wrote:

As far as within Utah the beat diggers take the cake. Although the Darts are a close second. What exactly is an aggie anyway?

Hey, go easy on my Darts. We're unique.

Too bad you're gold and not blue.

---

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by Mingjai - 2008/03/27 19:29

---

BYZoo wrote:

Johnny B (a Utah stand-up comic) had a funny bit about strange high school mascots. He asked the audience to give him a mascot name and someone shouted "Dons!" (Spanish Fork High). Johnny B: "The fearsome, fighting Dons! Sheesh, last week we got killed by the Larrys!"

That joke would have only worked in Utah, because every where else, they know that a "Don" is not someone to mess around with:

http://msnbcmedia2.msn.com/j/msnbc/Components/Photos/041125/041125\_robertdeniro\_hmed\_7p.hmedium.jpg

http://basetta.pupazzo.org/site\_media/postings/godfather.jpg

<http://www.teambio.org/uploads/thumb-corleone.jpg>

---

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by CrimsonCoug - 2008/03/27 19:30

---

snoscythe wrote:

Hengst wrote:

What exactly is an aggie anyway?

All of the Aggie schools are either A&M schools or former A&M's (Texas A&M, Utah A&M, New Mexico A&M, etc.)

A&M stands for Agriculture and Military, and Aggie comes from the Agricultural roots of the school.

A is for Aggie, but it turns out M is for Mechanical/Mechanic at both the Texas and New Mexico schools. (Before I looked I thought the M was for Mines/Mining). And what is now Utah State was never an A&M school--they've only ever officially been an "Agricultural" school (at least according to their site and wikipedia.)

---

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by CrimsonCoug - 2008/03/27 19:35

WACoug wrote:
Slugger wrote:
treck wrote:
The Manti HS Templars has to be included.:(

Funny you mention that because for years I joked about the Templars being named after a building, a sacred building at that. But just last week I learned that the word "templar" actually dates back to medieval times and refers to knights and appointed guards to certain sacred religious items (or something of that nature). Some of that involved the guarding of temples which is where the derivative "templar" comes from. I felt a bit sheepish after two decades of bashing them for creatively naming themselves after a building but as it turns out there is some admirable imagery and history to that name.

Correct. The "Templars" were a military order composed of knights officially endorsed by the Roman Catholic Church during the Crusades. They were responsible for protecting people on pilgrimage from Europe to Jerusalem. Templar is also somewhat of a nickname. Their full name was "The Poor Fellow-Soldiers of Christ and of the Temple of Solomon".

Yeah, only "Poor" became a real misnomer after they became wealthier than the Catholic Church. They developed one of the first international banking systems--pilgrims could make a deposit with their home country before they left and pull out the funds again in Jerusalem. The security fee sure beat being robbed by highwaymen. Only the Templars became so rich the pope got jealous and, needing to pay a few debts of his own, ordered the roundup, execution, and perfidy of the Templars on a certain Friday, the 13th day of the month--hence the current Friday the 13th superstition.

OK, back to football. or mascots. or whatever.

---

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by BYUtx - 2008/03/27 19:57

Mingjai wrote:

BYZoo wrote:

Johnny B (a Utah stand-up comic) had a funny bit about strange high school mascots. He asked the audience to give him a mascot name and someone shouted "Dons!" (Spanish Fork High). Johnny B: "The fearsome, fighting Dons! Sheesh, last week we got killed by the Larrys!"

That joke would have only worked in Utah, because every where else, they know that a "Don" is not someone to mess around with:

<http://amadeo.blog.com/repository/1004010/2245159.jpg>

<http://artfiles.art.com/images/-/Don-Knotts-Photograph-C12142095.jpeg>

<http://www.lasvegas-nv.com/showpics/don-rickles.jpg>

<http://www.screenhead.com/~screenhe/wp-content/uploads/2007/01/don-quixote.jpg>

---

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by Cougfan84 - 2008/03/27 21:07

Im a grad of Juab high...and you have to throw in our mascot...we were the "mighty wasps" Not dissin' my alma mater but a wasp has to be one of the most pathetic mascots... Don't mess with us or we'll sting ya. Maybe its just me but wasps have to be one of the more obnoxious creatures ever created haha

---

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by TimO - 2008/03/27 21:11

---

my school was the warriors, but our logo seemed to be different each year.
a picture of a:
knight, trojan, roman, caveman guy, indian, veteran? Some weird stuff going' up in here

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by Cougfan84 - 2008/03/27 21:41

---

haha oh and you have to love the Beaver high school beavers. The beaver beavers were my favorite school to play, and you couldn't help but laugh when you hear the cheerleaders cheer, "We can beat the beavers any old time."

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by cougarfan144 - 2008/03/27 21:59

---

BYUtx wrote:
I think Sugar City, ID also has the beet diggers as a HS mascot.
Actually, they're just the Diggers. But there is the Russetts in Shelley.

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by cougarfan144 - 2008/03/27 22:01

---

Slugger wrote:
Illinois1Cougar wrote:
Being Native American I'd have to say that the Yootards have the worst mascot. They are suppose to be the "Utes" right? So whats with that bird? Just a ploy to keep the "indians" from being offended?????

I have wondered the same thing. I have always been fascinated with Native American history and culture and thought it would be much cooler to have a head-dress wearing Indian chief walking the sideline than a ridiculous stuffed bird with a sissy name like "swoop". Whether or not you like Florida State, you have to admit that the Seminole Indian mascot that rides out on the horse and throws the sphere into the ground is pretty dang cool! It just goes to show that the air really is thin up on the hill.

The fighting Illini had a mascot that wore the head-dress thing. They were one of the big reasons the NCAA came down on schools about changing their mascots. I thought it was a pretty neat mascot.

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by poiuyboy - 2008/03/29 11:54

---

How about the West Bountiful Itchies

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by Conosticator - 2008/03/29 15:13

---

poiuyboy wrote:
How about the West Bountiful Itchies

We're talking worst mascots not local diseases. :)

=====

---

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by Conosticator - 2008/03/29 15:25

---

One of my favorite nicknames is the Grays Harbor CC Chokers. Just doesn't seem to equate with athletic success.

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by Conosticator - 2008/03/29 15:28

---

rackem wrote:

Hengst wrote:

Conosticator wrote:

My kids biggest high school rival was the Camas Papermakers.

I remember Camas, lol, I went to evergreen, we were the plainsmen, almost just as bad.

We played Camas and Washougal all the time back in the 70s and 80s, fun times.. My school was the Kalama Chinooks (Indians), I remember going to state one year in basketball and we ended up playing a school from eastern Washington, they assumed we were the Chinook fish and had all these banners of their mascot eating fish and what not...very funny. They did get the last laugh as they beat us 99-50. O-well, we were the Cinderella team that year and all good things finally came crashing down on us.

My brother inlaw has been the assistant track coach (sprinters) at Kalama for several years now. His name is still in the record book at BYU (37 years now) -- for the 4x400 relay.

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by Conosticator - 2008/03/29 15:30

---

And of course there are the Arlington Christian Lions.

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by Conosticator - 2008/03/29 15:34

---

There's also the Holy Names Cougars!!! But then we already knew that...

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by GolfDiveNCougs - 2008/03/31 18:35

---

cougarfan144 wrote:

Slugger wrote:

Illinois1Cougar wrote:

Being Native American I'd have to say that the Yootards have the worst mascot. They are suppose to be the "Utes" right? So whats with that bird? Just a ploy to keep the "indians" from being offended?????I have wondered the same thing. I have always been fascinated with Native American history and culture and thought it would be much cooler to have a head-dress wearing Indian chief walking the sideline than a ridiculous stuffed bird with a sissy name like "swoop". Whether or not you like Florida State, you have to admit that the Seminole Indian mascot that rides out on the horse and throws the sphere into the ground is pretty dang cool! It just goes to show that the air really is thin up on the hill. The fighting Illini had a mascot that wore the head-dress thing. They were one of the big reasons the NCAA came down on schools about changing their mascots. I thought it was a pretty neat mascot. Having grown up in a small village in Alaska, my absolute FAVORITE is...

The Aniak Halfbreeds.

---

As in: half Native Alaskan (Eskimo), half White Man.
No joke. I've gotta give them props, though, they stand by it proudly...

<http://dwb.adn.com/news/alaska/story/6940295p-6839422c.html>

I actually think it's pretty impressive. I mean, considering my upbringing (and sorry guys, I'm a full-on whiteboy), I'm intrigued by the arguments about American Native Mascots, and I really have to laugh about who does and doesn't get offended. Whether or not the actual tribes are offended or supportive, in my opinion, there's a big difference between the Cleveland Indians, for example, whose mascot is a cheesy, toothy, red-faced cartoon indian, understandably offensive to many, I wholeheartedly agree... and Alaska's Bethel HS Warriors (kicked our butts at Basketball every year, by the way) or Hoonah Braves, for example, considering at least half of their teams are comprised of Native Alaskans, whose great-grandfathers WERE "Eskimo" Warriors. If it's an issue of rights or honor, those young men and women deserve and embrace the right and honor. And power to them.

Props to the mighty Halfbreeds for embracing their culture and heritage.

Quoted from the above article:

When people from outside Alaska criticize the name, Wayne Morgan said, residents become more protective.

"We don't want no outside organization coming in and saying, 'That's a bad name,' " he said.

"We're one of a kind. No one else probably in the nation or the world has a name like that. We feel pretty special. There's many Eagles and Panthers and Cougars and Fighting Irish. We're Halfbreeds."

=====

Re:some of the worse mascots ever

Posted by Beaveroug - 2008/04/03 17:03

---

Anyone interested check out this website with the top ten worst college mascots.
<http://www.classesandcareers.com/education/2007/06/05/the-10-strangest-college-mascots/>

My personal favorite -- The Fighting Pickles (no joke)

=====