

---

new tbs article for non-subscribers

Posted by akcougar - 2008/03/27 21:53

---

I don't have the link, but if you go to scout.com and then the byu page, they have a report of day 7. It's a great read, and covers the d-line a bit. Enjoy!!

=====

Re:new tbs article for non-subscribers

Posted by Metallicat - 2008/03/28 09:55

---

<http://byu.scout.com/2/741261.html>

=====

Re:new tbs article for non-subscribers

Posted by Hengst - 2008/03/28 10:03

---

Gaskins and Mcuen failed to complete 1 pass during 11 on 11's. Ouch . . . You'd think they could at least get a dump off or something. I hope max stays healthy . . .

=====

Re:new tbs article for non-subscribers

Posted by Metallicat - 2008/03/28 10:18

---

Hengst wrote:

Gaskins and Mcuen failed to complete 1 pass during 11 on 11's. Ouch . . . You'd think they could at least get a dump off or something. I hope max stays healthy . . .

Yeah, I thought the same thing. The fact that we have a new secondary makes it look even worse.

=====

Re:new tbs article for non-subscribers

Posted by nuk13 - 2008/03/28 10:40

---

It may be because the coaches wanted them to throw certain passes. I am not giving up on them yet.

=====

Re:new tbs article for non-subscribers

Posted by splitbamboo - 2008/03/28 12:59

---

Hengst wrote:

Gaskins and Mcuen failed to complete 1 pass during 11 on 11's. Ouch . . . You'd think they could at least get a dump off or something. I hope max stays healthy . . .

Aren't they playing with 2s and 3s? The chances of a team of 2s or 3s going in at the same time are negligible (unless we're blowing everyone out and that would be a good thing!)

=====

Re:new tbs article for non-subscribers

Posted by mountaincougar - 2008/03/28 14:53

---

Gaskins had had a really poor spring to date and McEuen has looked sharp. I was there yesterday and was surprised with no completion for McEuen. But it was 3 and out for both and only one series each. One was knocked down by Vic

---

So'to at the line and he knew the play. :) Saw Johnny Harline (pretty sure) there and he was still open as McEuen threw to him after practice.

Go Cougars!!!

---

Re:new tbs article for non-subscribers

Posted by Hengst - 2008/03/28 15:05

---

I wonder what the deal with Gaskins is, he was great in the spring game last year. It seems like he should be getting more than one series at this stage as well. We really need to have him ready to go, in case he needs to.

---

Re:new tbs article for non-subscribers

Posted by Real.Men.Wear.Blue - 2008/03/28 15:17

---

Don't forget that the defensive players have a significant advantage in that they know the offensive plays. But failing to complete a single pass is terrible.

---

Re:new tbs article for non-subscribers

Posted by BOID - 2008/03/28 23:02

---

Hey, I interpret this as evidence that our defensive backs are fetching good. It most likely requires a veteran with some swagger to be able to play against them. As Cruiser said, Max has been successful only by exploiting the smallest of seams, and seemingly less so all the time.

---

Re:new tbs article for non-subscribers

Posted by Metallicat - 2008/03/29 17:18

---

Real.Men.Wear.Blue wrote:

Don't forget that the defensive players have a significant advantage in that they know the offensive plays. But failing to complete a single pass is terrible.

That may be true, but any team I ever played on (which is limited from little league to High School) when the defense new the play the coaches told them "not to play hero"