
Can you wiggle your ears, too?

Posted by MajorCougar - 2008/04/06 10:29

I can. Can you? We all got a good laugh at that one. Probably a first for a prophet... ;) :laugh:

I really have enjoyed Conference weekend, especially President Monson's talk (his first as such) in the Priesthood session.

What's been your favorite part or talk so far?

Re:Can you wiggle your ears, too?

Posted by Raul - 2008/04/06 11:22

I can.

Re:Can you wiggle your ears, too?

Posted by BYUROCKS - 2008/04/06 11:36

I can, I loved Priesthood sessions second half

Re:Can you wiggle your ears, too?

Posted by loopycoug - 2008/04/06 11:47

I am an ear wiggler.

Re:Can you wiggle your ears, too?

Posted by ammoncougar1 - 2008/04/06 12:38

I too can wiggle 'em. My favorite part/talk was Pres. Uchtdorf's Priesthood talk and Sis. Tanner's.

Go Cougs!!!

BTW, I am always getting the "U of U, school of the Prophets" junk from my Ute fan friends. I am pleased to note that President Monson got his "higher degree" from BYU. Oh, and my claim to fame is Pres. Monson sealed my wife and I in the SL Temple almost 14 years ago. WooHoo.

Re:Can you wiggle your ears, too?

Posted by nuk13 - 2008/04/06 15:34

I can't wiggle my ears but it wasn't me.

I was really moved last night by the presiding Bishop's talk about how 3.9 million people had this last year been benefited by the charitable hearts and hands of Latter Day Saints. The world can say what they want, but to me, when you do the works of Christ, you are Christian.

As I wrote this Elder Wickman told the of his service in Viet Nam and the refusal of Sargent Morris to get on the evacuation helicopter even though he had a wound (as in "A Poor Wayfaring Man of Grief"). Later that day he gave the last full measure of his devotion. He had said, "They can't kill a tough old bird like me." Elder Wickman of course, said something to the effect that he does live.

It is very difficult to pick talks out when there are so many great ones. Where else can you laugh and cry so many times in 2 hours.

I again want to thank you guys for a thread, though not about BYU sports, is very appropriate. If I could give all of you karma I would.

=====

Re:Can you wiggle your ears, too?

Posted by Cougfan84 - 2008/04/06 16:46

I wish I had that awesome talent! haha President Monson cracks me up! I thoroughly enjoyed all of the many messages from this conference. Elder Ballard's talk I thought was very important and then to hear President Monson's comical conclusion to another uplifting conference was icing on the cake. We Thank Thee O God for a Prophet to guide us in these Latter Days!

=====

Re:Can you wiggle your ears, too?

Posted by Conosticator - 2008/04/06 17:23

Cougfan84 wrote:

I wish I had that awesome talent! haha President Monson cracks me up! I thoroughly enjoyed all of the many messages from this conference. Elder Ballard's talk I thought was very important and then to hear President Monson's comical conclusion to another uplifting conference was icing on the cake. We Thank Thee O God for a Prophet to guide us in these Latter Days!

Amen.

=====

Re:Can you wiggle your ears, too?

Posted by BYUROCKS - 2008/04/06 18:58

ammoncougar1 wrote:

I too can wiggle 'em. My favorite part/talk was Pres. Uchtdorf's Priesthood talk and Sis. Tanner's.

Go Cougs!!!

BTW, I am always getting the "U of U, school of the Prophets" junk from my Ute fan friends. I am pleased to note that President Monson got his "higher degree" from BYU. Oh, and my claim to fame is Pres. Monson sealed my wife and I in the SL Temple almost 14 years ago. WooHoo.

Remember that almost if not all of the Quorum of Twelve Apostles and First presidency got a Honorary degree from BYU. and that is to show in the end they saw the LIGHT :kiss: :woohoo:

=====

Re:Can you wiggle your ears, too?

Posted by bostoncoug - 2008/04/06 19:08

I too am an ear wiggler, and I can wiggle them independently of each other (one at a time), or both at a time. I'm pretty sure that is a special talent (although feel free to burst that bubble, I won't take offense :)

I really enjoyed President Uchtdorf's talk during priesthood session, about being "just 2 degrees off" can lead you to disaster. It was a great conference weekend!!!!

Re:Can you wiggle your ears, too?

Posted by Cougfan84 - 2008/04/06 19:47

bostoncoug...that takes talent my friend. I've gotta give ya karma just for the very uniqueness of that haha.

=====

Re:Can you wiggle your ears, too?

Posted by BYUROCKS - 2008/04/06 19:58

Cougfan84 wrote:

bostoncoug...that takes talent my friend. I've gotta give ya karma just for the very uniqueness of that haha.

ditto

=====

Re:Can you wiggle your ears, too?

Posted by ola - 2008/04/06 20:32

I wish I could wiggle them. I am a medical student and I don't ever remember dissecting any muscle posterior to the ear. Maybe President Monson developed this muscle using a strength and conditioning program developed by Coach Omer.

=====

Re:Can you wiggle your ears, too?

Posted by craigoscarson - 2008/04/06 20:50

ola wrote:

I wish I could wiggle them. I am a medical student and I don't ever remember dissecting any muscle posterior to the ear. Maybe President Monson developed this muscle using a strength and conditioning program developed by Coach Omer.

The only thing I remember about anatomy lab is the smell and the fat. Unless you're going into surgery, it's a complete waste of time. There are no straight gross anatomy questions on your board exams, and there is very little practical knowledge gained by wasted hours upon hours cleaning debris to expose a nerve or vessel. Every bit of anatomy you need to know for medicine can be learned from a book, unless you intend to cut in the future; and even in that case you'll have plenty of cutting experience in a 4-5 year surgery residency. (glorified mechanics imho)

=====

Re:Can you wiggle your ears, too?

Posted by CougarPeasant - 2008/04/06 21:46

I can't wiggle my ears, touch my tongue to my nose, or pop my eyes out like a squeeze doll.

What I can do is tell you how great Conference was this weekend and that the mantle of the Prophet fell upon President Monson as borne by his testimony and the testimony of the other apostles, especially Elder Holland's opening testimony this afternoon.

The Church is true my fellow Cougar fans... learn it, live it, love it.

=====

Re:Can you wiggle your ears, too?

Posted by ammoncougar1 - 2008/04/06 21:50

CougarPeasant wrote:

I can't wiggle my ears, touch my tongue to my nose, or pop my eyes out like a squeeze doll.

What I can do is tell you how great Conference was this weekend and that the mantle of the Prophet fell upon President Monson as borne by his testimony and the testimony of the other apostles, especially Elder Holland's opening testimony this afternoon.

The Church is true my fellow Cougar fans... learn it, live it, love it.
While I certainly cannot disagree with your statement about the "mantle" and President Monson, it was, to me, far more visible and evident in President Uchtdorf. What and incredible, notable change I felt/saw in him. What a kingdom!

Go Cougs!!!

=====

Re:Can you wiggle your ears, too?

Posted by ctcoug - 2008/04/06 22:11

As for wiggling both ears check this out.

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=5BSHOyfnMoU>

=====

Re:Can you wiggle your ears, too?

Posted by bengel - 2008/04/06 22:39

ola wrote:

I wish I could wiggle them. I am a medical student and I don't ever remember dissecting any muscle posterior to the ear. Maybe President Monson developed this muscle using a strength and conditioning program developed by Coach Omer.

I don't think so. If Coach Omer were involved, we would have seen liftoff.

=====