
Kehl sleeper in draft?

Posted by Knucklehead - 2008/04/17 13:29

CBS.Sportsline names Bryan Kehl as this year's sleeper at outside linebacker in the draft. See link

<http://www.cbs.sportsline.com/nfl/draft/prospectrankings/DEF/OLB>

The same analyst says that Beau Bell of UNLV is overrated as an inside linebacker:

<http://www.cbs.sportsline.com/nfl/draft/prospectrankings/DEF/ILB>

He also calls TCU's Tommy Blake this year's sleeper at Defensive End. The only problem is he lists Tommy's school as SMU instead of TCU.

<http://www.cbs.sportsline.com/nfl/draft/prospectrankings/DEF/DE>

=====

Re:Kehl sleeper in draft?

Posted by Cougfan84 - 2008/04/17 14:35

how can you trust a draft scout that doesn't even know the right school a prospect goes too?

I definitely think Tommy Blake, Bryan Kehl, and Chase Ortiz will all be great NFL players. But I dk about Beau Bell being overrated... I was always very impressed with him and he has had good production, Injuries were the main knock i've seen in him. If Bell stays healthy, I see him having a productive NFL career.

=====

Re:Kehl sleeper in draft?

Posted by BYUtx - 2008/04/17 15:57

Cougfan84 wrote:

how can you trust a draft scout that doesn't even know the right school a prospect goes too?

It's nothing new. ESPN, Fox, CBS and others consistently make similar mistakes regarding non-BCS schools, conferences and players. It's gotten to the point that it doesn't even phase me any more. If we were to avoid every person and website that doesn't get these "minor" facts right, our only source of college sports news would be CB as well as Greg Wrubell and Rhianon Potkey.

=====

Re:Kehl sleeper in draft?

Posted by OLB - 2008/04/18 19:21

CNNSI.com lists Kehl as one of the "fastest raisers" in the draft.

See <http://sportsillustrated.cnn.com/2008/football/nfl/specials/draft/2008/04/18/pauline.hotlist/index.html?eref=T1>

=====

Re:Kehl sleeper in draft?

Posted by B-Rex - 2008/04/18 19:38

OLB wrote:

CNNSI.com lists Kehl as one of the "fastest raisers" in the draft.

See <http://sportsillustrated.cnn.com/2008/football/nfl/specials/draft/2008/04/18/pauline.hotlist/index.html?eref=T1>

Dang!!!

Because the draft is on a Sunday, we won't get to see Kehl get drafted.:angry:

=====

Re:Kehl sleeper in draft?

Posted by craigocarson - 2008/04/19 14:24

Knucklehead wrote:

CBS.Sportsline names Bryan Kehl as this year's sleeper at outside linebacker in the draft. See link

<http://www.cbs.sportsline.com/nfl/draft/prospectrankings/DEF/OLB>

The same analyst says that Beau Bell of UNLV is overrated as an inside linebacker:

<http://www.cbs.sportsline.com/nfl/draft/prospectrankings/DEF/ILB>

He also calls TCU's Tommy Blake this year's sleeper at Defensive End. The only problem is he lists Tommy's school as SMU instead of TCU.

<http://www.cbs.sportsline.com/nfl/draft/prospectrankings/DEF/DE>

I agree that Kehl will be a special player in the NFL given the right defense and coaching staff, but Beau Bell is a tackle machine and I don't think he's overrated one bit. Considering that he played for UNLV, he might be a bit underrated.

=====

Re:Kehl sleeper in draft?

Posted by Delta534 - 2008/04/19 14:44

craigocarson wrote:

Knucklehead wrote:

CBS.Sportsline names Bryan Kehl as this year's sleeper at outside linebacker in the draft. See link

<http://www.cbs.sportsline.com/nfl/draft/prospectrankings/DEF/OLB>

The same analyst says that Beau Bell of UNLV is overrated as an inside linebacker:

<http://www.cbs.sportsline.com/nfl/draft/prospectrankings/DEF/ILB>

He also calls TCU's Tommy Blake this year's sleeper at Defensive End. The only problem is he lists Tommy's school as SMU instead of TCU.

<http://www.cbs.sportsline.com/nfl/draft/prospectrankings/DEF/DE>

I agree that Kehl will be a special player in the NFL given the right defense and coaching staff, but Beau Bell is a tackle machine and I don't think he's overrated one bit. Considering that he played for UNLV, he might be a bit underrated.

Y'know- i'd LOVE to see my patriots snag kehl in the 2nd rd... their LB's are aging (Bruschi.. Vrabel...) That'd be a TOTAL steal for'm. Plus he's a hard worker and best of all...he's got character being a return missionary and Belichick loves guys who work ther tail off and are responsible off the field too. He'll do great!

=====

Re:Kehl sleeper in draft?

Posted by OLB - 2008/04/19 17:39

Delta534 wrote:

Y'know- i'd LOVE to see my patriots snag kehl in the 2nd rd... their LB's are aging (Bruschi.. Vrabel...) That'd be a TOTAL steal for'm. Plus he's a hard worker and best of all...he's got character being a return missionary and Belichick loves guys who work ther tail off and are responsible off the field too. He'll do great!

No doubt ... plus Kehl is pretty good with a video camera.;

Re:Kehl sleeper in draft?

Posted by Isola - 2008/04/19 17:53

Delta534 wrote:

Y'know- i'd LOVE to see my patriots snag kehl in the 2nd rd... their LB's are aging (Bruschi.. Vrabel...) That'd be a TOTAL steal for'm. Plus he's a hard worker and best of all...he's got character being a return missionary and Belichick loves guys who work ther tail off and are responsible off the field too. He'll do great! No doubt that Kehl has character, but what on earth would Belichick about character?!

My feelings for Belichick aside, the Patriots do a great job of finding real steals, and they need to get a lot younger on defense, especially at LB.

Re:Kehl sleeper in draft?

Posted by CougarPeasant - 2008/04/19 18:55

craigoscarson wrote:

Knucklehead wrote:

CBS.Sportsline names Bryan Kehl as this year's sleeper at outside linebacker in the draft. See link

<http://www.cbs.sportsline.com/nfl/draft/prospectrankings/DEF/OLB>

The same analyst says that Beau Bell of UNLV is overrated as an inside linebacker:

<http://www.cbs.sportsline.com/nfl/draft/prospectrankings/DEF/ILB>

He also calls TCU's Tommy Blake this year's sleeper at Defensive End. The only problem is he lists Tommy's school as SMU instead of TCU.

<http://www.cbs.sportsline.com/nfl/draft/prospectrankings/DEF/DE>

I agree that Kehl will be a special player in the NFL given the right defense and coaching staff, but Beau Bell is a tackle machine and I don't think he's overrated one bit. Considering that he played for UNLV, he might be a bit underrated.

He had to make all those tackles BECAUSE he was at UNLV. Being the best player on a bad team doesn't mean you are the best player in the conference.

Re:Kehl sleeper in draft?

Posted by craigoscarson - 2008/04/19 19:03

CougarPeasant wrote:

craigoscarson wrote:

Knucklehead wrote:

CBS.Sportsline names Bryan Kehl as this year's sleeper at outside linebacker in the draft. See link

<http://www.cbs.sportsline.com/nfl/draft/prospectrankings/DEF/OLB>

The same analyst says that Beau Bell of UNLV is overrated as an inside linebacker:

<http://www.cbs.sportsline.com/nfl/draft/prospectrankings/DEF/ILB>

He also calls TCU's Tommy Blake this year's sleeper at Defensive End. The only problem is he lists Tommy's school as

SMU instead of TCU.

<http://www.cbs.sportsline.com/nfl/draft/prospectrankings/DEF/DE>

I agree that Kehl will be a special player in the NFL given the right defense and coaching staff, but Beau Bell is a tackle machine and I don't think he's overrated one bit. Considering that he played for UNLV, he might be a bit underrated.

He had to make all those tackles BECAUSE he was at UNLV. Being the best player on a bad team doesn't mean you are the best player in the conference.

Brian Urlacher was the best player on a bad team..... ;)

=====