
Football this Saturday

Posted by Zilog - 2008/04/17 13:23

This info is for anyone interested in playing football this Saturday.

We will be playing flag football at 10:30AM at Mountain View High School in Orem Utah.

We will also be playing tackle football at the same place at 2PM.

You are all welcome to come to one or both. I understand most will not be able to play both games due to not being in football shape... ;) But I highly recommend it for those who love playing football as much as I.

If you need any more info let me know.

PS.. We just play for fun.. No one is trying to kill anyone or prove how much of a man they are.. We don't want to hurt anyone because we want everyone to come next week! B)

I am planning to be there, likely for the 2:00 tackle game. Which one of the two usually has the higher attendance?

I'd have to say flag has better attendance. To be honest last Saturday was the first time we had enough for tackle since November.. But considering the weather is getting better I think we'll be able to continue playing both. For our first week back playing tackle we had 11 people come. We usually prefer to have 12-16. Personally 7 on 7 is my perfect amount.

With flag we average anywhere from 7 people to 18.. Just depending on the weather and luck.

Cool, good info! From my experience anything 12 or higher usually works out pretty well. Below that and it gets a little dicey and messy. I do prefer tackle though I also enjoy flag so there's a slim chance I'll get in on both games. Hopefully this 35-yr old body can keep up!

Dude this would be way fun! I'd have to stick to the flag game because of knee problems and back surgeries, but this would be way tight. We should get a league put together. I love all sports, but man nothing compares to the gridiron! I just got out of my PFD (Post Football Depression). It was worse this year than usual because I had missed football for two years and then when I got home it was early December so I missed the high school football season, missed the whole cougar football season other than the the Vegas bowl (I'm glad my family taped every game I missed, I missed 2 great years of cougar football!!), but luckily I was home for the NFL playoffs...And when it ended the depression set in...The Combo of going to college with no football was almost too much too bare...But luckily we had spring football and now the NFL draft is 9 days away and Finals are next week, so life is good...Nothing beats the summer speculation of the upcoming football season...Then when summer ends, life begins again!

It looks like fantastic football weather tomorrow so hopefully many of you will come out and throw the pigskin around! Hope to see you there. Zilog, thanks for posting and giving us the opportunity to join in.

I prefer tackle to flag, but I also prefer to not miss the Suns game at 1:00. I'll plan on 8:00.

Oh I'm with you there.. I much prefer tackle to flag.. But I'll take any football I can get.. Especially with Spring practices being over, it's even harder to get my football fix.

But hope to see several people come out on a beautiful Saturday.

PS.. If only one CB'er comes then their name is usually dubbed 'Cougerblue' for the day..

Pending untimely death or something of that nature between now and tomorrow, I'll be there! Not sure yet which session, or both. I prefer tackle, and the afternoon hours are better suited for me anyway since I'm not a big morning person. So likely I'll be there for tackle. Looking forward to it!

Well guys, I would love to come and play as this is my last Saturday in Utah before we move, but unfortunately I have already committed to the SLC Marathon tomorrow, and I doubt I'll have enough in the tank to crack skulls with you guys.

It was a great experience playing with those of you who played in Lehi last fall, and hopefully when we come back in 2010 you'll still be lacing 'em up. For anyone oscillating on whether to come or not, I highly recommend you come. Great bunch of guys who keep the egos in check so that the fun remains.

I am planning to show up for the 2:00 tackle group. I prefer tackle and I prefer playing in the afternoon...gives me time to wake up!

I'd say the cougarblue'ers should all come to both! but if you're just going to come to one.. Tackle would definitely be the better one. Cya there!

Ya thanks for coming Slugger! It was a lot of fun today.. I admit I was pretty dead by the time we stopped playing.

Also want to thank Harlinestillopen (I think that was your name) and Statcougar for coming as well.. And the 3 anonymous CB'ers who owned us.. I'm glad the one that wore the Boston shirt didn't hate me once he found out who I was. ;)

We'll be playing again next week 1030 flag and 2 is tackle. Everyone is welcome to come!
