

---

Chambers article

Posted by cougfan1 - 2008/04/25 08:23

---

<http://www.orlandosentinel.com/community/news/winterpark/orl-hscenter2508apr25,0,2128560.story>

Interesting tidbits in the article:

- Chambers plans to walk-on to the basketball and track teams. This is what the article said. I don't know if that is a true intention of Chambers. Doubt Bronco would let him do both. If he were to one, maybe track. With BYU going to the BCS from here on out, he will miss 1/3 of the season if he even is lucky enough to play b-ball ;).

- It sound like Florida's scholarship offer was pulled back by Urban, if he was truly ever offered by then.

---

Re:Chambers article

Posted by Hengst - 2008/04/25 08:44

---

That's cool, we could use a true power forward on the bball team, he'd fit nicely.

---

Re:Chambers article

Posted by JUSTBYU - 2008/04/25 12:04

---

Hengst wrote:

That's cool, we could use a true power forward on the bball team, he'd fit nicely.

He is only 6'3", i doubt he would be able to hang with a power forward.

---

Re:Chambers article

Posted by aegjs47 - 2008/04/25 12:12

---

JUSTBYU wrote:

He is only 6'3", i doubt he would be able to hang with a power forward.

And he might run into trouble after a few too many of Coach Anae's turnover drills, when the other team's PG steals a pass and Chambers lays him out on the court and recovers the fumble....blink:

---