
Football this Saturday

Posted by Zilog - 2008/05/08 16:39

Hey Guys!

Sorry I haven't put up a notice the last few weeks.. I recently moved and didn't have internet (can't post when I'm at work) and had a funeral... But we have played.. Well I couldn't go to tackle and therefor they didn't want to play with out me ;) jk they didn't have me recruiting people so didn't get enough.

So anyways... We'll be playing flag football at 1030 at Mountain Views Bruin Bowl.. Tackle will be played at 2pm same place... I recommend coming to both to insure you have the time of your life!

Anywho.. It's a lot of fun, and I'm sorry if any of you that have come didn't have fun.. but hope to see some more CB'ers out to play! :P

I went once, and would have kept going but I found a group of guys who play basketball (my true love) every saturday.

But it really was a blast when I did go. I would recommend it to anyone down in Utah county

Wish I could be there tomorrow but I have other commitments. I had a blast when I went a few weeks ago! Unfortunately I have had alot of family obligations come up the past couple of weeksand I haven't been able to come out. It really is alot of fun, and with mostly sunny skies and 70 degrees, tomorrow would be the perfect time for some football! I will be out of town tomorrow but if that changes, which it might, I'll be there!

There's a group of guys that I play with every Saturday morning at 9:00 at the field by DT in Provo (9th east and University Parkway). We play flag w/ lots of contact for anyone that is interested. It's a lot of fun and everyone is invited. We play until 11 usually.

Sorry about that... We couldn't get anyone to commit to playing.. I think we have 5 people that said they would play.. This is one of the things I hate so much about having to arrange football. Bloody sucks yewt when you can't get enough to play.. We had a fair amount of people out of town so we'll try again next week..

I think I might venture over one of these weekends.. Especially if I can't get enough for the games I arrange..
