Why couldnt they wait until next year to hire a good coach. We get the Knicks first round draft pick next year. Had the Jazz gotten a top 6 pick again, that may have put them over the top. Deron Williams may be good enough, but it wouldnt hurt to give him a little more help.

JAZZ IN 6 over the LAKERS!!!!:)

It's not going to matter next year. All of their previous bad decisions are going to have them strapped for a few years at least. They have way to many primadonna, overrated players making way too much money for D'Antoni to fix it. The Jazz will still get a lottery pick next year.
