
Jazz-Lakers predictions

Posted by stuckinbig10country - 2008/05/16 14:54

I know this is not a Jazz forum, but it has been a topic of debate for the last couple of weeks. If interested, give a quick prediction, and why.

I think the Lakers win tonight by about 10-12 points, lead extended at the end due to fouls to extend the game.

As big as a Jazz fan as I am, I just don't see them winning this game tonight. I don't think it will be because of the officiating, or anything controversial. The Jazz will miss layups and not rebound at critical times. Its what happens with the Jazz in big games.

Re:Jazz-Lakers predictions

Posted by Detmer - 2008/05/16 14:57

The Jazz will win this game. Utah will be playing with a "Do-or-die" attitude whereas the Lakers have another home game to fall back on if they lose.

I don't know what will happen in game 7. But i am confident the Jazz have the advantage tonight.

Re:Jazz-Lakers predictions

Posted by Slugger - 2008/05/16 15:01

Jazz win 109-103. The Lakers will want to win this game to eliminate a game 7 considering the Jazz are inching closer to that elusive road win. However, the fact the Jazz haven't won in LA this year makes me think the Lakers might leave a little bit in the locker room thinking if it doesn't happen tonight, they'll win the series at home in LA.

Either way, it should be a great game and I am already getting the butterflies and adrenaline! GO JAZZ!!!

Re:Jazz-Lakers predictions

Posted by jaga97 - 2008/05/16 15:44

Hmmm? Home teams have won 95% of the games in the second round. I think my money is on the Jazz tonight. This team is not like the Jazz of the past. Utah's play will be elevated tonight and force a game 7.

Jazz 108
Lakers 101

Players of game

Kobe 30 points 8/19

Williams 28 points 9/15 12 assists

Re:Jazz-Lakers predictions

Posted by NikeFootball - 2008/05/16 19:40

Jazz 111
Lakers 104

Re:Jazz-Lakers predictions

Posted by Mars - 2008/05/16 21:55

stuckinbig10country wrote:

I think the Lakers win tonight by about 10-12 points, lead extended at the end due to fouls to extend the game.
What's the score at half-time?
