

---

Team Preview - Brigham Young

Posted by DieHardCougar - 2008/06/30 09:20

---

ESPN just released a team preview for the Cougs:

<http://insider.espn.go.com/ncf/insider/news/story?id=3460352&action=login&appRedirect=http%3a%2f%2finsider.espn.go.com%2fncf%2finsider%2fnews%2fstory%3fid%3d3460352>

BCS or bust!!!

---

Re:Team Preview - Brigham Young

Posted by BYUtx - 2008/06/30 09:42

---

Too many factual errors for my taste, but a good read nonetheless.

---

Re:Team Preview - Brigham Young

Posted by COSMOlogist - 2008/06/30 09:46

---

A fun read to get the juices flowing and the national spotlight shining just a bit brighter. An insider would have likely mentioned something about Russel Tialaveva and Justin Sorenson. Not one word about them. :huh:

---

Re:Team Preview - Brigham Young

Posted by harlinestillopen - 2008/06/30 09:49

---

Brandon Doman on Max Hall

"He is the best we have had in four years and that is not a knock on John Beck," quarterbacks coach Brandon Doman told the Salt Lake Tribune. "That is just where the program is and where the offense is and he has performed better than any quarterback has performed in spring yet."

Wow.

That was a pretty good read. Pretty accurate

---

Re:Team Preview - Brigham Young

Posted by PP3 - 2008/06/30 10:02

---

I very much enjoyed the read.B) Thank you. Adds something to a dull summer day. Almost as exciting as reading Cruiser posts, though Cruiser would definitely have mentioned Sorenson and Tialaveva. were starting to get down there guys, down to about two months until the first game. Hang in there.

---

Re:Team Preview - Brigham Young

Posted by GolfDiveNCougs - 2008/06/30 10:54

---

I noticed a few links at the bottom of the story:

From Pat Forde's College football season predictions:

9. The one unit in all of college football with the most on its shoulders is: BYU's secondary. If that quartet of new starters comes through, the Cougars can go 12-0 and crash the BCS. If not, how does a fourth straight Las Vegas Bowl sound? The good news for BYU is that the two high-profile early tests (at Washington on Sept. 6 and UCLA on Sept. 13) are against teams that don't throw the ball with great distinction.

---

...and from Schlabach's '08-09 Bowl Predictions:

Tostitos Fiesta: Oklahoma Sooners vs. BYU Cougars
(Subject of previous thread)

...and Schlabach's preseason top 25:

13. BYU Cougars - The Cougars have their sights set on a BCS bowl invitation, but they'll have to do it without top fullback Manase Tonga. The senior was ruled academically ineligible and will miss the 2008 season. Tonga ran for 305 yards and eight touchdowns and caught 27 passes for 248 yards last season. He also was a great lead blocker for Harvey Unga, who last year became the first BYU freshman to run for more than 1,000 yards in a season.

Wow! The ESPN machine is really firing up here. It is flattering that BYU is getting this powerful national respect (especially from BCS homer ESPN) so far before the kickoff, but it's also important to remember that there's nothing the news media likes more than to be proven correct. It's one thing for an ESPN pundit to say it, it's something else entirely for the Harris voters and the Coaches to agree (see Tyrone Willingham and Les Miles' votes in the final Coaches Poll last year - and how BYU, at 10-2, was suspiciously absent from "their" Top 25 Hmm.)

Interest from the Sports Writers is not bad news for BYU though; if ESPN didn't think it would happen, they wouldn't be telling everyone to watch out for it. I'd call it further validation of past efforts, combined with realistic expectations of future success.

=====

Re:Team Preview - Brigham Young

Posted by Conosticator - 2008/06/30 10:54

from the article...

That the Cougars have arrived in such a lofty position just four years after Mendenhall's arrival is testament to the job the BYU alum has done.

Perhaps we should make that "honorary alum". :woohoo: :woohoo: :woohoo:

=====

Re:Team Preview - Brigham Young

Posted by gmj81 - 2008/06/30 11:00

No, like BYUtx pointed out, there were far too many errors. I'm actually surprised this writer was hyping the team as much as he was considering how many mistakes he made and seeing how he was leaving out some of the best stuff validating a strong run in 2008. But nevertheless, the more attention BYU receives, the more it will validate their ranking and title contention when they keep winning since it was predicted or at least discussed prior to the season as opposed to coming out of nowhere.

=====

Re:Team Preview - Brigham Young

Posted by Florwood - 2008/06/30 13:06

harlinestillopen wrote:
Brandon Doman on Max Hall

"He is the best we have had in four years and that is not a knock on John Beck," quarterbacks coach Brandon Doman told the Salt Lake Tribune."

So four years ago, I think that was Matt Berry and a freshman John Beck. Is Doman saying that Hall is the best we've had since Berry? Sounds like another error, along with Bronco being an alumnus and Willing coming from Vandy...or am I missing something?

---

=====

Re:Team Preview - Brigham Young

Posted by harlinestillopen - 2008/06/30 13:20

---

Florwood wrote:

harlinestillopen wrote:

Brandon Doman on Max Hall

"He is the best we have had in four years and that is not a knock on John Beck," quarterbacks coach Brandon Doman told the Salt Lake Tribune."

So four years ago, I think that was Matt Berry and a freshman John Beck. Is Doman saying that Hall is the best we've had since Berry? Sounds like another error, along with Bronco being an alumnus and Willing coming from Vandy...or am I missing something?

huh? When I read it, I took it more like what he said. In the last four years, Hall's looked the best during the spring of any QBs. INCLUDING John Beck as a senior

=====

Re:Team Preview - Brigham Young

Posted by TimO - 2008/06/30 13:21

---

better read than most takes. Look for one even better in the NY times in August!

=====

Re:Team Preview - Brigham Young

Posted by BYUtx - 2008/06/30 13:23

---

Florwood wrote:

harlinestillopen wrote:

Brandon Doman on Max Hall

"He is the best we have had in four years and that is not a knock on John Beck," quarterbacks coach Brandon Doman told the Salt Lake Tribune."

So four years ago, I think that was Matt Berry and a freshman John Beck. Is Doman saying that Hall is the best we've had since Berry? Sounds like another error, along with Bronco being an alumnus and Willing coming from Vandy...or am I missing something?

I think the period of time Coach Doman was referring to is the length of his tenure as QB coach when he made the comment.

=====

Re:Team Preview - Brigham Young

Posted by TimO - 2008/06/30 13:31

---

ya, lets hear some more!

only 1 month on Wednesday for Fall Camp!

=====

Re:Team Preview - Brigham Young

Posted by imuakahuku - 2008/06/30 13:57

---

---

BYUtx wrote:
Florwood wrote:
harlinestillopen wrote:
Brandon Doman on Max Hall

"He is the best we have had in four years and that is not a knock on John Beck," quarterbacks coach Brandon Doman told the Salt Lake Tribune."

So four years ago, I think that was Matt Berry and a freshman John Beck. Is Doman saying that Hall is the best we've had since Berry? Sounds like another error, along with Bronco being an alumnus and Willing coming from Vandy...or am I missing something?
I think the period of time Coach Doman was referring to is the length of his tenure as QB coach when he made the comment.

I took it to mean that Max was getting the job done and done well! :woohoo:

---

Re:Team Preview - Brigham Young

Posted by BlueRhyno - 2008/06/30 14:46

---

imuakahuku wrote:
BYUtx wrote:
Florwood wrote:
harlinestillopen wrote:
Brandon Doman on Max Hall

"He is the best we have had in four years and that is not a knock on John Beck," quarterbacks coach Brandon Doman told the Salt Lake Tribune."

So four years ago, I think that was Matt Berry and a freshman John Beck. Is Doman saying that Hall is the best we've had since Berry? Sounds like another error, along with Bronco being an alumnus and Willing coming from Vandy...or am I missing something?
I think the period of time Coach Doman was referring to is the length of his tenure as QB coach when he made the comment.

I took it to mean that Max was getting the job done and done well! :woohoo:

Obviously, Doman (and by extension the entire coaching staff) has adopted John Beck as a kind of lucky charm. And as such, replaced the phrase "knock on wood" with "knock on John Beck". Therefore, the correct interpretation is that Max is so good that we will not need to rely on luck, like we needed to four years ago every time Berry touched the ball.

I applaud this move by the coaching staff, as it is the first step toward canonization as Saint Beck, the patron saint of receivers-open-in-the-end-zone, and legitimizing the miracle of the "Answered Prayer" of 2006.

---

Re:Team Preview - Brigham Young

Posted by StatCougar - 2008/06/30 16:41

---

BlueRhyno wrote:
imuakahuku wrote:
BYUtx wrote:
Florwood wrote:
harlinestillopen wrote:
Brandon Doman on Max Hall

"He is the best we have had in four years and that is not a knock on John Beck," quarterbacks coach Brandon Doman told the Salt Lake Tribune."

So four years ago, I think that was Matt Berry and a freshman John Beck. Is Doman saying that Hall is the best we've had since Berry? Sounds like another error, along with Bronco being an alumnus and Willing coming from Vandy...or am

---

I missing something?

I think the period of time Coach Doman was referring to is the length of his tenure as QB coach when he made the comment.

I took it to mean that Max was getting the job done and done well! :woohoo:

Obviously, Doman (and by extension the entire coaching staff) has adopted John Beck as a kind of lucky charm. And as such, replaced the phrase "knock on wood" with "knock on John Beck". Therefore, the correct interpretation is that Max is so good that we will not need to rely on luck, like we needed to four years ago every time Berry touched the ball.

I applaud this move by the coaching staff, as it is the first step toward canonization as Saint Beck, the patron saint of receivers-open-in-the-end-zone, and legitimizing the miracle of the "Answered Prayer" of 2006.

I have laughed that hard in a while, bonus for you Rhyno. I think whoever wrote this article may have spent too much time on BYU fan sites.

"The odds against any team going undefeated are long, and BYU is no different, but the potential for a magical run is in place."

---

Re:Team Preview - Brigham Young

Posted by Conosticator - 2008/06/30 16:59

---

The way I see it, the year is half over and we're still undefeated and sport the longest winning streak in the country. Here's to doing the same thing during the second half!!! :cheer: B)

---

Re:Team Preview - Brigham Young

Posted by kiwibacon - 2008/06/30 18:09

---

Just a quick thought, kind of on topic. I am glad to be in the news for this kind of stuff. 3-4 Years ago we were in the news for other stuff. It is a VERY NICE change. I thought of that when reading the other news making headlines section of that same page.

-Ga. Tech's Tarrant charged with rape, suspended

-Georgia mascot Uga VI dies from heart failure

-Ex-Oklahoma quarterback jailed for unpaid tickets

-Bama dismisses LB charged with selling cocaine

-McElrathbey transferring from Clemson to Howard

-Clemson S McDaniel arrested on assault charges

-Ex-Wash St. QB recruit Schmidtke to Indiana St.

-UCF running back Kay suspended after arrest

Again glad of the change that has happened in the off season as well as during the season.:cheer:

(Knock on John Beck)

---

Re:Team Preview - Brigham Young

Posted by Conosticator - 2008/06/30 18:14

---

kiwibacon wrote:

---

Just a quick thought, kind of on topic. I am glad to be in the news for this kind of stuff. 3-4 Years ago we were in the news for other stuff. It is a VERY NICE change. I thought of that when reading the other news making headlines section of that same page.

-Ga. Tech's Tarrant charged with rape, suspended

-Georgia mascot Uga VI dies from heart failure

-Ex-Oklahoma quarterback jailed for unpaid tickets

-Bama dismisses LB charged with selling cocaine

-McElrathbey transferring from Clemson to Howard

-Clemson S McDaniel arrested on assault charges

-Ex-Wash St. QB recruit Schmidtke to Indiana St.

-UCF running back Kay suspended after arrest

Again glad of the change that has happened in the off season as well as during the season.:cheer:

As long as the players avoid water balloon and snowball fights we should be fine.

=====

Re:Team Preview - Brigham Young

Posted by kiwibacon - 2008/06/30 18:23

---

I will still stake balloon gate and this type of coverage than the highlighted ones above.

=====

Re:Team Preview - Brigham Young

Posted by Sage - 2008/06/30 18:36

---

Freshman Jordan Pendleton (6-2, 218) and sophomore Andrew Rich (6-3, 210), a transfer from Snow Junior College, will be top safety reserves. Rich had a monster year at Snow in 2007, leading the Badgers in tackles (120) and interceptions (five).

This sounded the best of the d side of the ball to me. Our defense has returning (from JC) players who still have to compete to get playing time.

We supposedly have a big hole to fill with so many players being replaced. But this sounds good.

=====

Re:Team Preview - Brigham Young

Posted by BYUtx - 2008/07/06 21:18

---

Deleted

=====

Re:Team Preview - Brigham Young

Posted by CAFB_04-12 - 2008/07/07 10:55

---

BYUtx wrote:

ONE

What does this mean?

---

=====

Re:Team Preview - Brigham Young

Posted by imuakahuku - 2008/07/07 11:13

---

CAFB_04-12 wrote:

BYUtx wrote:

ONE

What does this mean?

He is referring to thread number one of four and probably soon to be five threads. I take it that people are just excited to read the write-up and can't wait to post it. It would be nice though, if they checked for a dupe thread-especially if the article is days old.

---

=====

Re:Team Preview - Brigham Young

Posted by Conosticator - 2008/07/07 13:17

---

imuakahuku wrote:

CAFB_04-12 wrote:

BYUtx wrote:

ONE

What does this mean?

He is referring to thread number one of four and probably soon to be five threads. I take it that people are just excited to read the write-up and can't wait to post it. It would be nice though, if they checked for a dupe thread-especially if the article is days old.

But then what would BYUtx do for entertainment during the long off-season?

---

=====

Re:Team Preview - Brigham Young

Posted by mormonrasta - 2008/07/07 20:02

---

kiwibacon wrote:

Just a quick thought, kind of on topic. I am glad to be in the news for this kind of stuff. 3-4 Years ago we were in the news for other stuff. It is a VERY NICE change. I thought of that when reading the other news making headlines section of that same page.

-Ga. Tech's Tarrant charged with rape, suspended

-Georgia mascot Uga VI dies from heart failure

-Ex-Oklahoma quarterback jailed for unpaid tickets

-Bama dismisses LB charged with selling cocaine

-McElrathbey transferring from Clemson to Howard

-Clemson S McDaniel arrested on assault charges

-Ex-Wash St. QB recruit Schmidtke to Indiana St.

-UCF running back Kay suspended after arrest

Again glad of the change that has happened in the off season as well as during the season.:cheer:

(Knock on John Beck)

Uhhh, BYU has made headlines for stealing, unpaid tickets, and destruction of property in the Bronco era.

---

We all hope for quiet offseasons when it comes to the Honor Code and legal problems, but since we are dealing with 18-25 year olds that isn't always going to be the case. BYU has had and will always have their fair share of problems with the negative stuff regardless who is the coach. All we can expect is consistent and fair application of the rules regarding team discipline.

=====

Re:Team Preview - Brigham Young

Posted by declocoug - 2008/07/07 22:42

---

mormonrasta wrote:

kiwibacon wrote:

Just a quick thought, kind of on topic. I am glad to be in the news for this kind of stuff. 3-4 Years ago we were in the news for other stuff. It is a VERY NICE change. I thought of that when reading the other news making headlines section of that same page.

-Ga. Tech's Tarrant charged with rape, suspended

-Georgia mascot Uga VI dies from heart failure

-Ex-Oklahoma quarterback jailed for unpaid tickets

-Bama dismisses LB charged with selling cocaine

-McElrathbey transferring from Clemson to Howard

-Clemson S McDaniel arrested on assault charges

-Ex-Wash St. QB recruit Schmidtke to Indiana St.

-UCF running back Kay suspended after arrest

Again glad of the change that has happened in the off season as well as during the season.:cheer:

(Knock on John Beck)

Uhhh, BYU has made headlines for stealing, unpaid tickets, and destruction of property in the Bronco era.

We all hope for quiet offseasons when it comes to the Honor Code and legal problems, but since we are dealing with 18-25 year olds that isn't always going to be the case. BYU has had and will always have their fair share of problems with the negative stuff regardless who is the coach. All we can expect is consistent and fair application of the rules regarding team discipline.

Yeah, but those are things you expect from 18-25 year olds. Why, if I had a dollar for every mailbox I destroyed ;) . People don't look at rape charges or selling cocaine in the same light.

=====

Re:Team Preview - Brigham Young

Posted by BYUtx - 2008/07/07 22:45

---

declocoug wrote:

mormonrasta wrote:

kiwibacon wrote:

Just a quick thought, kind of on topic. I am glad to be in the news for this kind of stuff. 3-4 Years ago we were in the news for other stuff. It is a VERY NICE change. I thought of that when reading the other news making headlines section of that same page.

-Ga. Tech's Tarrant charged with rape, suspended

-Georgia mascot Uga VI dies from heart failure

---

-Ex-Oklahoma quarterback jailed for unpaid tickets

-Bama dismisses LB charged with selling cocaine

-McElrathbey transferring from Clemson to Howard

-Clemson S McDaniel arrested on assault charges

-Ex-Wash St. QB recruit Schmidtke to Indiana St.

-UCF running back Kay suspended after arrest

Again glad of the change that has happened in the off season as well as during the season.:cheer:

(Knock on John Beck)

Uhhh, BYU has made headlines for stealing, unpaid tickets, and destruction of property in the Bronco era.

We all hope for quiet offseasons when it comes to the Honor Code and legal problems, but since we are dealing with 18-25 year olds that isn't always going to be the case. BYU has had and will always have their fair share of problems with the negative stuff regardless who is the coach. All we can expect is consistent and fair application of the rules regarding team discipline.

Yeah, but those are things you expect from 18-25 year olds. Why, if I had a dollar for every mailbox I destroyed ;) .

People don't look at rape charges or selling cocaine in the same light.

Unless, of course, if by "people" you mean "the SEC."

=====