

---

Todd Watkins on Sportsbeat

Posted by A_King - 2004/09/26 23:02

---

What a great guy! I love the guy and look forward to the next four years with him! Wow! One thing that prompts me to write this is the encouraging words about the season. He said...

"It's a new season. Those first four games were just like a pre-season and now we have a new season to look to in the conference."

I felt good about that. I normally tend to look for NATIONAL affection and rankings as success, and think less about MWC championship. I want that BIG bowl game and BYU Cougar ESPN highlights. But, after what Todd Watkins said...I can sit back and think a bit more clearly at the obstacle ahead and the GOAL for BYU Football!

We have a 0-0 now, and we only want the MWC Champion title getting the Liberty Bowl bid! Nothing else! Honestly, BYU can do it and I am even MORE excited for the ride seeing their game come together at BSU finally after a long sabbatical! :D GO COUGS!!

=====

Todd Watkins on Sportsbeat

Posted by BYUFan227 - 2004/09/27 05:09

---

He's around for two years if the NFL doesn't come calling. He's a redshirt Junior.

=====

Todd Watkins on Sportsbeat

Posted by A_King - 2004/09/27 08:50

---

I was wondering about that. He says he is here for the schooling and I wasn't sure how long of schooling he had left. Redshirt junior? Ok. So, technically he is a Junior this year?

Too bad. 4 years would have been nice. :D

=====

Todd Watkins on Sportsbeat

Posted by frdbtr - 2004/09/27 13:10

---

Todd Watkins = Great reciever, bad interview. Someone needs to teach him how to answer open ended questions with sentences instead of 1 word answers. :D

=====

Todd Watkins on Sportsbeat

Posted by ValleyCoug - 2004/09/27 18:12

---

frdbtrTodd Watkins = Great reciever, bad interview. Someone needs to teach him how to answer open ended questions with sentences instead of 1 word answers. :D

I don't care if he couldn't speak at all, Watkins will do all the important talking on the field.

=====

Todd Watkins on Sportsbeat

Posted by A_King - 2004/09/27 19:07

---

I would hardly make implications that Todd Watkins isn't an articulate person! No no.

He is an intelligent guy. Did he have alot to say on every question posed him that night. Not really. I too wished he would have said more than. "Win." --awkward pause-- "Just win." But, seriously...that wasn't a sign of lack of intelligence. He didn't have much to answer that question with.

---

ABOUT THE POLL:

It seems we have someone in every category. Hope we get more votes. I am curious what the majority of the people here think. BTW, I was the single vote for 7-0. I TRULY believe that BYU can go 7-0! I am going to name some conditions here just because I know my team really struggles to win under certain conditions. So,

If BECK stays healthy:

BYU 7-0 undefeeted conference season. Great win against Utah in November!

if BECK gets injured and BERRY stays healthy:

BYU 6-1 with a struggle against the team that injures BECK and a loss to Utah.

if BECK, and BERRY get hurt and JASON BECK plays:

BYU 5-2 with wins against UNLV, WYOMING, COLORADO STATE, AIR FORCE and NEW MEXICO.

=====

Todd Watkins on Sportsbeat

Posted by frdbtr - 2004/09/28 07:11

---

Did I say ANYTHING about watkins not being intelligent? Come on guys, don't read more into my posts than is there. I was making fun of his 1 word answers, not his intelligence. Just because someone answers a question with 1 word answers, it doesn't mean that the person is not intelligent. It takes a lot of intelligence to pick up on a complicated offense in a couple of months like Watkins has.

=====

Todd Watkins on Sportsbeat

Posted by A_King - 2004/09/28 09:41

---

frdbtrDid I say ANYTHING about watkins not being intelligent? Come on guys, don't read more into my posts than is there. I was making fun of his 1 word answers, not his intelligence.

Oh. Ok. :D Sorry about that! I was certain you were implying that he wasn't intelligent enough to answer those open ended questions and needed to be taught. But, I am glad to see that you don't seriously think he isn't intelligent.

Sorry I jumped to the wrong conclusion!

=====